Hush Of Battle

● Ahousaht Indian Village on Flores Island, 140 air miles northwest of Victoria along the west coast of Vancouver Island, is in the death throes of a way of life.

Most villagers exist on welfare, unemployment insurance while it lasts, or earn a meagre living from a shrinking fishing fleet. Join Colonist writer Terry Hammond and photographer Karl Spreitz and listen for the hush of final battle in Ahousaht, Page 10.

Aid to Albernis

EXPERTS RULE ON DISASTER

As disaster aid pledged to the Alberni Valley passed the $500,000 mark, the provincial cabinet yesterday hired professional insurance adjusters to appraise the Alaska earthquake's tidal wave damage to Vancouver Island.

Deputy provincial secretary Lawrie Wallace said the cabinet hired the Canadian Independent Adjusters' Conference under E. C. Earle of Vancouver and that an advance team of 15 adjusters is expected to arrive at Port Alberni today.

(See also Page 32.)

The survey will include a dozen more remote communities up-Island which suffered from the tidal waves and will take a week to 10 days.

Premier Bennett did not attend the cabinet meeting. He was in Toronto on business, following his attendance at the Dominion-Provincial conference in Ottawa.

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black said the insurance investigators will concentrate on rehabilitation problems and "will assess the situation and give us as quick a reply as possible."

Meanwhile, Victoria's Acting-Mayor Arthur Dowell established a fund at city hall for public contributions to victims of the Alberni area tidal wave disaster.

City council has already announced it will contribute fi-

Hawks, Leafs Win

Chicago Black Hawks got an overtime goal from Murray Balfour to defeat the Red Wings, 3-2, in Detroit Thursday night and even their best-of-seven Stanley Cup hockey semi-final at two games each.

Toronto and Montreal, the other semi-finalists, also are all square at two games each after the Leafs defeated Montreal, 5-3, in Toronto. (See pictures, stories, on Page 14.)

Tax Reshuffle May Follow Parley Review

QUEBEC (CP) — The federal-provincial conference agreed Thursday to a searching "review in depth" into the tax resources and financial responsibilities of federal and provincial governments.

Prime Minister Pearson said it might lead to a reshuffling of taxing and spending fields between the two levels of government and "conceivably" to constitutional amendments.

There was agreement in principle on such a study, but not final agreement to the federal proposal that a 13-man ministerial "tax structure committee" do the job. One source said Quebec hesitated to agree firmly that such a committee is the best body to do the job.

WORK OUT FORMULA

A communique issued at the close of the three-day conference also announced agreement on immediate discussions to work out a formula for provinces wanting to "contract out" of existing shared-cost programs—taking over their whole cost burden in return for what Mr. Pearson said would be "adequate" compensation.

The prime minister said Quebec is the only province to have declared its desire to contract out of such programs now

'Unconstitutional'

Quebec Fights Aid Schemes

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage said Thursday Quebec would challenge in the courts the constitutionality of two federal government measures to aid education if they are applied in Quebec.

He made the statement in a formal communique issued at the end of the federal-provincial conference.

The two measures are an extension of family allowances to 16- and 17-year-old students, designed to keep older children in school, and proposed interest-free loans to university students.

PROVINCIAL MATTER

Quebec contends that since both measures are aimed at aiding education they are unconstitutional because education is strictly a provincial matter.

Mr. Lesage reiterated Quebec wants the equivalent of the money Ottawa would spend in Quebec on the two plans, in the form of increased taxation resources.

Mr. Lesage said his government is "not satisfied" with its current share of tax resources. The question would be discussed with "unprecedented gravity" in his budget speech, expected about mid-April.

The Quebec premier, visibly weary after three days of talks, said education is "incontestably within our jurisdiction." The only solution to the issue would be for Ottawa to provide Quebec with fiscal compensation if it goes ahead with its plans.

SAVE COMPLICATIONS

"This is a solution which could be applied immediately and save us from complications, and even serious disputes, which would be the inevitable result of a disagreement.

"Indeed we would necessarily have to have recourse to the courts to obtain respect for the constitutional rights of the province if our observations are not followed."

Wasylenchuk Case

'Lost' Witnesses Anger Judge

SEATTLE (AP) — Two missing witnesses in the murder-bank robbery trial of Canadian John Wasylenchuk were sought Thursday and one was criticized from the bench as their unexplained absence delayed the case from going to the jury.

Efforts were made to locate Fred L. Mitchell, Seattle police detective, and retired Sgt. Edward Murton of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, of Tadanac, B.C., near Trail.

Federal Judge William Lindberg estimated at adjournment the jury might get the case by noon Friday. He had earlier thought deliberations could begin by late Thursday.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND

Commenting from the bench that the Seattle officer had failed to be present when subpoenaed to do so, Judge Lindberg said:

Mitchell had earlier testified in absence of the jury under a "government offer of proof," and the court had agreed to permit his statements to be heard by the jurors.

'TOLD TO LEAVE'

Defence attorney Erle Horswill announced, in the jury's presence, that he wanted to call Murton, a government witness, as a defence witness "if he can be found." Thomas Dohm, Vancouver barrister aiding the defence, said he was informed Murton "was told to leave" and was driving to Spokane.

Horswill said he wanted Murton to testify that Sgt. Ernest Nuttall, the now-retired RCMP sergeant who is Wasylenchuk's principal alibi witness, had told him about the time of the bank robbery here he had "checked out" Wasylenchuk and found him home shortly before noon the day of the holdup.

Earlier Thursday the government presented testimony in an effort to disprove Wasylenchuk's alibi that he was at his home in South Burnaby, B.C., the day of the holdup.

Belgian Strike

Doctors Face Army Callup

BRUSSELS (AP) — The Belgian government Thursday ordered a Brussels military hospital opened to civilians and planned to call up physicians in the armed forces reserves to cope with a country-wide doctors' strike.

Government sources said civilian hospitals here were overcrowded and 200 more beds urgently needed.

* * *

Almost all of Belgium's 10,000 practising doctors struck Wednesday in protest against changes in the state-controlled health insurance system.

Since the strike began, the only way for a patient to receive medical care is to summon an ambulance and go to a hospital where a skeleton emergency service has been set up by doctors' organizations.

The Belgian news agency Belga Thursday night reported four doctors burst into an Ostend surgery Wednesday while an operation was being performed and urged the surgeon to stop it. The surgeon refused and threw the intruders out of the operating room with the help of his assistants.

* * *

Workers staged demonstrations against the doctors in some areas Thursday.

The reform law, passed by Parliament last year, grants free medical treatment to low-income people and sets fixed fees for treatment. It strengthens controls so much that spokesmen for the doctors charge it is a step toward fully socialized medicine.

One provision is that rebel doctors will be fined and jailed.

Brazilian Army Chiefs Claim:

Goulart Flees—Victory Total

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Army leaders claimed total victory Thursday night in their three-day revolt against the Joao Goulart regime.

Congress installed its own provisional president to replace Goulart, who was reported to have fled the country.

* * *

The war ministry said rebel troops crushed resistance in Porto Alegre, in Goulart's home state of Rio Grande do Sul, and seized the city. A dispatch from Porto Alegre said Goulart fled Brazil by air for an undisclosed destination, believed to be Montevideo, Uruguay.

* * *

The war ministry said the Porto Alegre garrison swung over to the rebel side to seize the city and forced Goulart to abandon his plans for a last-ditch fight.

Ranieri Mazzilli, speaker of the Chamber of Deputies and constitutional successor to Goulart, was sworn in at Brasilia as provisional president in a brief ceremony.

Goulart's flight climaxed three days of feints and thrusts by opposing army units but little actual combat. Only one armed action—rebel attack and capture of tiny Fort Copacabana in Rio's Guanabara Bay—and two dead were recorded in the 72 hours of rebellion.

* * *

But more than 20 casualties were reported in pro-Goulart and anti-Goulart demonstrations here and elsewhere during the fast-moving events which began Tuesday night. The revolt was headed by military and civilian leaders who felt some of Goulart's policies were heading the country toward Communism.

More than 1,000,000 people poured into Rio de Janeiro streets in an anti-Communist victory celebration. Ticker-tape drifted down from skyscrapers. Throngs bore placards reading: "Reforms with God" and "Thanks to God, Communism has been erased."

Truman

Georgi No Worse Off Than Harry and Ike

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio said Thursday that former premier Georgi Malenkov is no worse off than former presidents Truman and Eisenhower.

Broadcasting in English to North America, a Moscow commentator said a listener had asked what had happened to Malenkov.

* * *

"Mr. Malenkov was released from his post according to legal, constitutional procedure by a democratically elected body, the Soviet Parliament.

"Now why ask what happened to him? Why should something happen to him?

"The day when things happened to people is gone never to return again.

* * *

"There are no political prisoners in the U.S.S.R. and Mr. Malenkov is no worse off than Mr. Truman or General Eisenhower."

Malenkov and other members of an "anti-party group" were ousted from the Soviet inner circle in 1957.

nancial aid to the stricken communities and the amount will be fixed after city representative Ald. Robert Baird returns from a meeting of Island municipalities in Nanaimo tonight.

Ald. Dowell said "I strongly urge all citizens to make some contribution towards helping our Island neighbors."

SEND TO CITY HALL

Contributions should be addressed to Alberni Valley Disaster Fund, c/o City Hall, Victoria. The money will be forwarded.

The navy's Pacific Command has also started a fund to help the Alberni Valley. The welfare committee of the destroyer escort HMCS Skeena started the navy campaign yesterday with a donation of $200.

Donations from other ships and establishments are expected to follow, said a navy spokesman.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell, who made a three-day trip through the northern part of Vancouver Island to assess damage at isolated communities, said yesterday that damage reports are still coming in.

About $85,000 damage to telephone and power lines at Prince Rupert airport was reported yesterday, he said.

On his tour up-Island, the minister found damage to floats and private boats at Port Alice and damage to booming grounds at Port McNeill. He also learned that log booms had been damaged at Winter Harbor.

Alberni Valley disaster relief donations and pledges were believed to have passed the $500,000 mark but Alberni Mayor Fred Bishop said "We've got a long way to go to $5,000,000."

Vancouver Kinsmen are trying to raise $300,000 and sizeable donations are expected from Pacific Truck and Trailer Company and Longshoremen's and Pulp-Paper Workers' Unions.

FROM ACROSS CANADA

Donations are reaching the Albernis from all across Canada.

A $200 cheque has been received from a Lennoxville, Que., woman, while a $10 donation came from a resident of Fort Garry, Man. Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing has made a personal contribution to the Alberni Valley Disaster Fund.

ASSESS LOSSES

Local contractors were helping city officials assess the loss involved in homes slated for demolition. First of these may be destroyed by army work crews this afternoon.

Bulk of the demolition work will await the detailed assessment of damage by the government-sponsored survey team.

After five days of strenuous activity in the stricken zone, the clean-up is bringing order out of chaos. Yards which were strewn with soaked chesterfield suites, refrigerators, electric stoves and sodden rugs, are now muddy but tidy.

WON'T SEE WORST

The survey team will not see the worst of the mess and it may be hard for them to visualize the loss the families have endured.

Famous Players' local manager Harold Warrne announced a special disaster fund benefit show will be held Sunday in the Paramount Theatre at 8:30 p.m.

Local 1-85 I.W.A. executive has unanimously agreed to recommend an initial contribution of $4,000 to the fund. Ratification by the local membership is expected at a meeting to be held on Sunday, April 12, a spokesman said.

UNION CANVASS

Arrangements are also being made to canvass the membership in all operations of the local union for personal contributions by payroll deduction.

John Squire, MLA, a member of the local executive, said he hopes it will be understood the donations will be strictly on a voluntary basis, as it is realized many of the members have experienced heavy loss through the flood. However, he pointed out, he is certain Local 1-85 members in up-coast areas will be anxious to contribute.

Bud Handley of the Local Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union deposited a cheque for $500 from his union's international organizations. The local union had already contributed $150.

ONE BANK REPOSITORY

While all banks and credit unions in the Alberni district are authorized to accept donations to the Disaster Fund, one bnak had to be chosen as repository.

Ald. Jack Perry solved the problem of choice by placing the names in a hat. The Canadian-Imperial Bank of Commerce was chosen and Ald. Perry suggested that the managers of the two branches should hold their own draw to see which would receive the account.

But the communique contained no explicit promise of an over-all increase in provincial revenues.

Mr. Pearson told a press conference that nothing had been done that would alter the federal government's budget for the new fiscal year begun Wednesday—a clear indication that this Quebec conference has not made provincial treasuries any richer.

SEPTEMBER MEETING

Mr. Pearson said he will meet next in conference with the provincial premiers at Charlottetown in September to mark the 100th anniversary of the pre-Confederation talks there.

It indicated merely that the federal plan won't apply in Quebec province, which will be launching its own pension plan, and said there was "general agreement to ensure the widest possible pension coverage for Canadians."

NO REFERENCE

There was no reference to the possibility raised by Premier Robarts of Ontario that his government might institute a pension plan of its own, thus shutting the federal plan out of Ontario as well.

The new "tax structure committee" proposed to review "the nature and extent of federal and provincial taxes" in relation to their financial responsibilities would be made up of three federal cabinet ministers and one minister from each of the provincial governments.

INTERIM REPORT

It would make an interim report for the next plenary federal-provincial conference late this year and the communique said its final report would be expected "by a fairly early date in 1965."

Mr. Pearson volunteered the news that in the conference three premiers had called the idea for the study "momentous," "revolutionary" and "unprecedented."

Premier Robarts said the tax study committee would be "of very great significance indeed" and expressed the hope it would provide the solutions to "our fiscal problems."

Ontario, like Quebec, had pressed for greater tax revenue.

Premier Lesage said the study committee in itself holds no promise of a speedy settlement of Quebec's "priority needs" for greater taxing powers.

"The government of Quebec is not satisfied."

Prime Minister Pearson said the committee—first of its kind ever set up by a federal-provincial conference—would seek to clarify existing confusions in taxing and spending powers between the two levels of government "and if necessary redistribute them."

He said this would "not necessarily" mean a greater share for the provinces of the personal and corporation income taxes and death duties now divided between them and Ottawa.

NEW TAXES?

It might involve new tax sources for the provinces, or an alteration in the existing division of tax fields.

The communique said it had been agreed that "an important purpose of this review would be to increase the range of tax resources available to the provinces" to meet their increasing burdens of education and other services.

But Mr. Pearson said this is "not the only important purpose" of the committee's work.

The federal treasury needed more money too, and he hoped the committee would also emphasize this need of the central government whose responsibilities had greatly increased since Confederation.

Mr. Pearson said that since the tax structure is determined in part by the constitution, the study conceivably could lead to constitutional amendments. But he declined to make a firm prediction on that point.

FORMULA REQUIRED

Turning to the question of provincial "contracting out" of shared-cost programs, he said hospital insurance — largest of these programs—possibly is the one where a formula to govern the shift in spending and taxing powers is most immediately required.

While no other province except Quebec had indicated plans for contracting out, "some of them are very interested in seeing the formula."

Mr. Pearson said there had been "general agreement in principle" that the formula should provide adequate and equivalent compensation for provinces taking over the whole cost of shared programs and that this should be done in a way that would not prejudice the position of other provinces not contracting out.

He said an early decision might be reached on formulas for one or two shared-cost programs, but declined to say when any change might come about.

LATE ADJOURNMENT

The conference, originally scheduled to adjourn around noon, did not end until 5 p.m. after nearly three hours of discussion on the communique.

Mr. Pearson explained that an original draft had been submitted "in considerable detail" and that some time had been spent in discussing what to take out.

But he rejected suggestions this took a lot of time. It was "one of the fastest communiques on record."

Woman's Soft Fingernails Can Involve Many Factors

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What can I do for soft fingernails? They just won't grow so I can manicure them. I have taken gelatin for two years, put different things on my nails, but no results.—MRS. E. S.

There are several factors which influence soft nails. Lack of sufficient protein is one, and that is why it has become popular to try gelatin.

INCOMPLETE PROTEIN

Gelatin, however, is what we call an "incomplete" protein. It contains some types of protein but lacks others. Vitamin A is another requisite. Some women, trimming their diets too sharply to control weight, avoid fats to the extent they they do not get enough carotene from which the body manufactures Vitamin A. (Yellow vegetables, such as carrots, squash, etc., will help to provide carotene, however.)

So much for diet: Get sufficient protein, and watch out for Vitamin A. (Supplements of Vitamin A and B together may be helpful.)

But diet isn't the only thing that affects nails. Manual work tends to harden them; lack of use softens them. Men tend to have strong nails. So, within limits, do women who do a lot of work with their hands.

External elements can affect the nails, and women are more exposed to this: Soaps, detergents, caustics, polishes, polish removers, fungus infections, incidental injuries. Solvents can dry out the nails, so you may benefit a good deal by leaving off nail polish and using gloves when working with detergents and household chemicals.

HEREDITY TOO

There is some hereditary influence on hardness of nails.

Finally, and not the least, underactive thyroid can be reflected in nails as well as in dry skin and thin hair and eyebrows.

Don't expect gelatin alone, or any single factor to be the answer to soft or brittle nails. Usually a combination of things is involved.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: Do cold, sweaty hands, mean tuberculosis? How does one feel with this disease? How long does it take to be cured?—R. R.

Heavens, no, cold, sweaty hands don't mean tuberculosis. A person with tuberculosis might have hot, feverish hands. Or hands just like ours.

It used to take several years of treatment for many TB cases; now it more often is a matter of months, perhaps six or eight for an "average" case. This is still a long time, but results are vastly better.

'Blowing Out' Phones?

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP)—"Cover your telephones with heavy towels or bedsheets," urged a Morgantown disc jockey during his afternoon program Wednesday.

'Heart Trouble' Was a Bullet

TORONTO (CP)—The body of a man who had a long history of heart trouble was removed to an undertakers before it was discovered he had been killed by bullets.

The case, which occurred in Smiths Falls, is one of two now under investigation by Dr. H. B. Cotnam, supervising coroner for Ontario.

The other involved the body of Rev. Joseph Armstrong, of Waterloo, an Anglican minister who had become an insurance salesman. His body was found slumped in his blood-spattered car two weeks ago, and was removed to the morgue where three bullet holes were discovered.

Dr. Cotnam declined comment on the cases, but said all Ontario coroners have instructions to preserve the original scene of violent death as much as possible. That included not removing the body.

The Smiths Falls case involved Walter Giff, killed Saturday night or early Sunday. His body was found in his grocery store by employee Mrs. J. B. Ellard, who notified police and the family doctor.

She said both she and police knew of Giff's previous heart trouble. Since there was no blood apparent and nothing in the store had been disturbed, police followed the telephone suggestion of the family doctor that the body be moved to the undertaker's, she said.

Undertaker Harold Amy first noticed the wounds, one in the arm and another in the heart.

Coroner Dr. H. H. Lloyd said he examined the body at the undertaker's for the first time.

No charges have been placed in connection with the death of Giff, but Wayne Donald McKinney, 22, of Kirkland Lake has been charged with capital murder in the death of Armstrong.

$100,000,000 Aid And $1 from Wendy

ANCHORAGE (UPI) — State and federal officials moved on several fronts Thursday to provide an immediate $100,000,000 to aid quake-wracked Alaska, but private citizens were getting there first with dollar bills.

Meanwhile the U.S. and Alaska public health services set the official casualty list at 130, with 27 dead and 103 missing and presumed dead. In addition, the health services said, 59 persons were in hospital with injuries suffered when the state was battered by an earthquake and tidal waves last Friday.

President Johnson named a special commission to draft long-range aid for Alaska and said he would ask congress for an immediate $50,000,000 for relief.

And Alaska Governor William Eagan also proposed to request legislation that would authorize a $50,000,000 bond issue and double the state's public indebtedness—to $400 for every man woman and child.

But individuals were not waiting for authorization. They were sending money in whatever amount they could spare.

Egan said he got a letter from four-year-old Wendy Loyahouse of Vancouver B.C., saying "To the dear children. This money is for you. Wendy." She enclosed $1.

The dollar, along with similar contributions in varying amounts from all over the world, went into a special Alaska relief fund set up by the governor's office.

Scotswoman Flies To See Son in B.C.

EDINBURGH (CP) — A 60-year-old Scotswoman who was refused permission by Canadian immigration authorities to take up residence with her son in Vancouver is flying to Canada today for a visit.

Mrs. Elizabeth McGarvie of Edinburgh said she has sold her home and belongings to raise £400 for the trip for herself and her 18-year-old daughter, Joyce.

WON'T HAVE PENNY

"If the immigration authorities send me back here I will not have a penny in the world," she said.

Her son David, 37, organizer of the Hong Kong Seaman's Union in Vancouver where he lives with his wife and six children, has not seen his mother since he emigrated 20 years ago.

Canadian authorities agreed to Joyce emigrating and being sponsored by David, but they turned down her own application, Mrs. McGarvie said.

SHE'LL FIGHT ON

"I bought a return ticket as I feel this is the only way I am ever going to see my son and grandchildren," she added. "Once I get to Vancouver I will continue my fight to stay.

In Vancouver David McGarvie said refusal to allow his mother to take up residence here is based on revenge.

Hungarian Gift

Khrushchev Looks Horses in Mouth

BABOLNA, Hungary (UPI)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev, a "country boy" with a peasant background, toured Hungary's farm belt Thursday and looked five gift horses in the mouth.

It was Khrushchev's first trip outside of Budapest since he arrived Tuesday, apparently to win Hungarian support for the Kremlin in the ideological dispute with Communist China.

"Aha," said Khrushchev with a twinkle in his eye and the knowledgeable look of a man who grew up among animals in the Ukraine. "Let's see that we are not being gypped on this deal."

He stepped in front of one of the horses, pried open its mouth and examined its teeth. He did the same with the other four animals.

Khrushchev liked what he saw. He accepted the horses and a shiny black opera carriage that went with them, then took a ride in the rig around an exercise track.

Vulnerable?

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union claimed Thursday it can knock out U.S. rocket weapons, including nuclear submarines.

"Under present conditions successful battle is possible not only against planes and stationary rocket establishments but also against atomic rocket submarines, both in their bases and at sea," the defence ministry newspaper Krasnaya Zvezda (Red Star) said.

Shepherd Injured

Canadians in Action In Grenade Blast

NICOSIA (CP)—A Turkish-Cypriot shepherd was seriously injured Thursday by a grenade explosion that sent Canadian United Nations troops into action.

The blast was in the "no man's land" between the Turkish-Cypriot village of Temblos and Greek-Cypriot positions in the Kyrenia Mountains.

It occurred a few hours before the United Nations Cyprus mediator, Sakari Tuomioja of Finland, arrived here following talks in New York and London.

Canadian troops with the UN peace force went into action with mine detectors after the Temblos blast and found evidence it was caused by a grenade, a senior Canadian officer said.

VAN DOOS AREA

Temblos is in the area patrolled by the company of the Royal 22nd Regiment commanded by Maj. P. R. Tremblay of Chicoutimi, Que., and by a troop of the Royal Canadian Dragoons under Lieut. Fraser Webb of Sydney, N.S.

Disarm Cypriots, Douglas Warns

OTTAWA (CP)—T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, said Thursday in the Commons that unless efforts are started promptly to disarm civilians in Cyprus, "there is certain to be trouble."

Only the United Nations force, in which Canadians form the main contingent, was in a position to carry out the disarmament. If Greek-Cypriots tried to take weapons away from Turkish-Cypriots, or vice versa, "we can visualize what will happen."

Mr. Douglas spoke as the House completed its study of external affairs department items in the $240,000,000 package of supplementary estimates for the fiscal year that ended at midnight Tuesday night.

The estimates have been under debate all week, washing out the Easter recess that was originally to have started last Thursday night. The government tried to get them cleaned up last week but opposition MPs balked.

RICHARD BOWER, Editor-in-Chief

It Is No Secret

A NEWS DISPATCH from Nicosia on Wednesday said it was "all quiet" on the Cyprus front. The presence of the UN force was having its effect.

It was not so quiet on Parliament Hill. There the opposition groups were complaining because they weren't given all the details of the UN directives to the force sent to this Mediterranean trouble spot. In reply the government said it wasn't permitted to disclose this information.

It is not common in military operations to make public all the briefing relative thereto, or in the functioning of police forces either in relation to their community duties. The public, and therefore the enemy also, wasn't told how the battle of El Alamein was to be carried on. Nor would the fine print of such details do much to help the situation if disclosed.

The complaint is surprising especially from NDP ranks, which have always contended that Canadian troops should be earmarked for UN purposes and little else. Parliament as a whole approved the sending of a Canadian contingent to Cyprus, and thus placed them under directive mantle of the UN organization.

Even so the "general basis" of the Cyprus force's operational role is not hard to guess; in fact it is no secret.

This force is in Cyprus in a police role, as a peace-keeping agency to help restore order and prevent open civil war in that island, with the latter's potential threat of large-scale involvement of Greece and Turkey.

It is a difficult role, and full of risk. This is inherent in the situation and must have been obvious to Parliament when it agreed to Canadian participation. It certainly is plain to any normal appraisement of UN intervention.

The Canadian troops, like their counterparts from the other nations in the force, have to try and keep the opposing Cypriots from grievous clash while not themselves initiating any battlefield action. They will open fire only in protection of themselves. That is the sum and substance of their presence in Cyprus.

Having put its troops at the disposal of the UN, Canada will have to trust the direction of their employment to UN authority. The success of their mission cannot be predicated on every contributing parliament thrashing out the directive pros and cons simply to satisfy party polemics, something that might well not only hamper UN operations but prejudice the safety of the UN troops themselves.

Poor Example

ONE CAN readily understand the objection of teachers to coming under the unemployment insurance system. They are not likely to be out of work, except in the rarest of instances. There is a more than ample market for their services, and they have the best of job security. If they and their employers, the school boards, were required to pay for unemployment insurance, this would be money down the drain as far as they were concerned.

But granting the validity of this opposition to being taxed for the welfare of others (even if they would be by no means alone in this respect) they appear in an odd and unbecoming light when their delegates at the annual meeting of the B.C. Teachers' Federation vote almost unanimously, for this reason, against them registering for the federal government's new "social insurance" numbers.

The purpose of the new numbering system according to Ottawa is to provide records on all working Canadians more suitable for modern data-processing than the existing Unemployment Insurance Commission identification. At the start the nine-digit numbers will be used only for unemployment insurance purposes but they are also designed for record-keeping in connection with the proposed Canada Pension Plan and other social security measures.

Can the teachers' federation reasonably suppose that registering for the numbers will bring its members under unemployment insurance, or that refusing to register at this time will keep them out, should their inclusion be required by future legislation?

For educators and persons in positions of community responsibility they show a strange distrust of democratic government and a remarkable naivety; they set a poor example.

The Real Purpose

THE NEW YORK motorist who challenged the right of his state to use his automobile licence plates for advertising purposes eventually lost his case, although in the first round a judge directed that slogan-free plates must be issued to vehicle owners asking for them. The motorist's point was that the state was using public property to advertise what he deemed to be a private enterprise, the New York World's Fair; a higher court didn't see it that way and erased the earlier ruling.

On these grounds anyway a victory for the complaining car-owner would not have been a precedent for other states (or provinces) being required to abandon the practice of promoting tourist business or their chief products in this fashion. But perhaps it's a pity.

As the Milwaukee Journal, for one, noted during the proceedings, "legends encroach upon the real purpose of licences, which is to identify the vehicles to which they are attached. They prevent the letter-numeral combinations from being larger and more legible."

That is a valid point. To serve their very important purpose to best effect, the figures on the plates should be as large as possible—and also, incidentally, as distinct as they can be made through sharp contrast, with no priority for prettiness.

Our own province's blue-on-white licences this year with their "Beautiful British Columbia" slogan are hardly models of legibility. It is not to be doubted that the wording will be carried into other parts of Canada and into the United States with pride. But are licences the right place for advertising?

A more effective promotion, and one not at odds with the real object of the plates, might be for the government or publicity agencies to supply enthusiastic British Columbians going abroad on the highways with bumper cards or window stickers such as so often seem to catch the traveller's fancy.

London Express Service

"Best excuse for getting out of doing the garden I've heard — 'They'll probably be building a city on it in 1970.' "

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax . . ."

By TOM TAYLOR

THERE was a news item from London this week that made me wonder if Nelson turned in his grave.

For 300 years and more the Admiralty flag had flown in Whitehall, day and night. It was the symbol of Britannia's rule of the seas, a rule that kept the oceans free to all peoples.

And now it has been hauled down. The Royal Navy has been demoted.

Nelson will be glad he never lived to see this day. And a certain British cigarette will have to get a new label.

For the navy is no longer the "senior service" with a proud tradition of independence; it becomes simply one of the three armed services of the British crown.

* * *

As in Canada the move towards integration is taking place. One cabinet minister will boss the triple defence of the nation, and one chief of staff will be the operational overlord.

The army, navy and air force still remain as such, but on a par in subordinate roles to a single "defence" creation.

It would be a sad day for the RN; no wonder the news item said there were tears in some eyes and that when the Royal Marine band played "Rule Britannia" the refrain didn't sound the same.

They haven't gone quite as far over there as we have in Canada, however. Not yet, although doubtless this may come. We are in the throes of military evolution, in the era when soulless guided missiles take the place of sailors, soldiers and airmen with all their colorful individuality, and the servicemen tends to become an amorphous being, neither fish nor fowl .

* * *

True enough Britain hasn't said that one of these days it will find a name for a "triphibian" or put him into an undesigned, speculative, uniform. The problem is perhaps more tricky than it is with us. What would they do with the kilted regiments, for example. Put bell-bottomed trousers on them?

The Canadian serviceman isn't yet being measured for his new dress, granted, but he's been told he can look forward to it. Within ten years, let's say, presuming another minister with different notions isn't at the defence helm.

And we have kilted units, too; in the reserve militia at least. And we have pipe bands in the regular army. Why, even the RCAF has a platoon of pipes and drums!

* * *

Indeed when it comes to finding a new name and a new garb for the tripartite Canadian serviceman this will pale the problem of designing a new national flag.

The Pearson government certainly believes in tangling with the hot potatoes of divisive public opinion, not to speak of the B-and-B chaps feeling the national pulse.

I don't know whether Mr. Pearson is brave or naive.

But badinage apart a big slice of history came to an end when the Admiralty flag was lowered. It was the valedictory of great days in the story of a navy as royal in deed as in name. Much of the world grew to competence and prosperity because it was there to shelter the weak against the strong.

The RN are still proud initials, but as they said of the Marines' rendition of their special anthem the men of oak won't feel the same.

False Social Philosophy

Vandalism: The Real Cause

By REV. W. A. FERGUSON, M.A., D.D.

ONE of the strangest features of the interminable discussions about "juvenile delinquency" is that while a score of reasons are assigned for it and every possible remedy suggested—from more clubs and recreation grounds to severer court sentences — the fundamental cause is seldom recognized or even mentioned.

In the past, youthful crime was usually set down to poverty or bad homes, e.g., drunken parents, and was confined mostly to petty thieving, vagrancy, and trespassing on or damage to private property. Most of the conditions of those days are altered, and today offences are common among young people from comfortable homes and adequate earnings or pocket money; moreover they are increasingly serious and include vandalism, arson, murder and rape — a strange and menacing development in a generally affluent society. It is plain that the real cause is something more fundamental than a change of outward circumstances and conditions.

The ultimate origin is a new social philosophy or "psychology" (or whatever we call it) which has possessed the minds of two generations of North American people with the force of a revelation. Its leading ideas as they appear in thousands of magazine articles, pamphlets and books, may be summarised as:

(1) That the worst of all mistakes in dealing with children and young people is to oppose their natural bent and so produce "repressions" or "complexes" which in later years cause neurotic and often violent reaction: and that in consequence the arbitrary exercise of parental authority is harmful and out of date.

(2) That youth is the golden time (and later life no more than second best) and that therefore youth is entitled to every possible liberty and indulgence.

(3) That children are naturally curious and eager to know, and that therefore "learning is" and should be "fun"; and finally that the young can in any case (especially today in this fast-changing world) learn little from their elders, whose true function is to provide the means for their development and to "stand out of their light."

* * *

Where such views originated it is difficult to say: perhaps John Dewey, the American philosopher, may be as responsible as anyone, but it cannot be denied that they are taught or implied in many handbooks of child psychology and education, and that they have deeply impressed the minds of millions of 20th century parents. The correspondence of the popular newspaper-consultants to whom anxious mothers submit their problems is of itself strong evidence of it.

It would be laughable if it were not so serious in its implications, to see mothers and fathers obliged to quit not only the room but the house in order that their presence may not spoil the pleasure of the teenagers' "pajama party" (held possibly in the dark); afraid to refuse the family car to the 16-year-old son to take him and his date to a late dance, lest they should lose his affection. To men and women of saner times and more settled convictions this would have appeared not only abdication but betrayal. No wonder the young are so often unsettled and unhappy.

Such ideas are in stark contradiction of the belief and practice of the civilized world both East and West. Besides, they are false. To the first the experience of our own recent past gives the lie direct. Is it true that careful training, even discipline, if mild and just, produces bad results in later life? Does it cause neurosis, rebellion, frustration?

The exact contrary seems to be the case if we may judge by the extraordinary record of the British and Canadian people in the 18th and 19th century when such home training was most in vogue. The record of these men, among them the founders of modern Canada, in exploration, in independent enterprise and in general strength of character has rarely been surpassed. They appear to have been the last people to suffer from repression or neurosis.

The second also is untrue: it contradicts the acknowledged fact that (except in the case of unusually gifted individuals) real learning is always hard work.

The third is a modern heresy which, if taken seriously, reduces adult life and achievement — the only real criterion—to little more than a preparation for bringing up the next generation, which in its turn repeats the same pattern in meaningless succession.

The last is merely an inference from the first and adds nothing of substance to it.

The acceptance of these views by the mothers and fathers of the past 40 years has practically paralyzed them in bringing up their children, and at the same time it has deprived the young of the guidance which they need and often subconsciously desire. Such parents are too anxious and unnerved to oppose their children's desires, or to take a firm line with them on any subject. But these same people are often shocked or indignant when their teenagers get into trouble for serious offences against the law. They see no connection between the way in which the children have been allowed or encouraged to behave at home and their present criminal lawlessness.

But if a strong-willed, adventurous youngster cannot remember any occasion when his wishes have not, either by persistence or wheedling, prevailed over those of his elders, or he has ever been faced by rules which he must obey, he is naturally inclined to resent school discipline, and later to disregard public laws or police regulations. Here is the real origin of juvenile crime.

No one today would seriously suggest a return to the old order of strictly disciplined households and subject young people, but it is not too much to ask that present-day parents should abandon the mistaken notions which cause them such pitiful anxiety and diffidence, and rediscover their true position and their responsibility to train their children in sound principles and habits of self-discipline and effort; and that they should begin to do this not in adolescence, when it is too late, but long before, in early childhood. If such a return to parental confidence were achieved, we might see a more stable and contented youth and better prospects for the society of tomorrow.

Summer Jobs

Growing Problem

From the Winnipeg Free Press

ADVOCATES of a year-round calendar for Canadian universities have found yet another champion in the person of William Thomson, director of Canada's National Employment Service.

Speaking in Winnipeg last Thursday, Mr. Thomson pointed out that the problem of finding summer employment for university students is becoming more difficult each year. This, he said, is occasioned by the fact that university enrolment is steadily on the increase and that summer jobs looked for by students are usually in the semi-skilled or unskilled categories, where there is already a surplus of applicants.

The answer, he suggested, may lie partly in interest-free loans to university students; but the real solution would be for the universities to operate on a year-round basis (in his words, to carry on an 11-month semester). "The universities won't like this," he added, "but they could cut the four-year course to three years"—to the advantage of the students and the economy as a whole.

Our Readers' Views

To be considered for publication in whole or in part, letters must be on subjects of general interest, and more than 300 words in length, and, if signed with a pen-name, must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

Inconsiderate Driving

I WAS particularly interested in the wishes of Hon. P. A. Gaglardi, minister of highways, to have the speed of automobiles increased, and his stated opinion that speed, as such, is not entirely responsible for the serious, and often times, fatal accidents on our provincial highways of B.C.

As an auto driver of many years' experience, both private and professional, I have come to the conclusion that these same accidents are not caused by speed in itself, but through the failure of the drivers affected to use their judgment and common sense. Bad timing is an important factor also, and lacking these all-important considerations is, in most instances, the cause of so many crashes, fatal and otherwise, which occur on the splendid highways in our lovely province.

I have observed so many drivers of auto vehicles commit the most flagrant breaches of driving ability that it is a wonder to me that these same drivers ever obtained their licences to drive in the first place!

Another violation of considerate handling of an automobile on the road is the frequent instance of "slow poking" or crawling along at 25 to 30 miles per hour in 50 and 60 m.p.h. zones, thereby holding up the oncoming traffic behind which is travelling at the designated speed. Such lack of common sense consideration should be jumped upon by the police patrol—were they to be on the job—for obstructing traffic.

The apparent reckless and ignorant behavior of so many motorists surprises me not a little.

Moonlighters

I bet you that Mr. Douglas Fisher, MP, TV personality, and newspaper columnist, could make a good speech in the House of Commons, or write a brilliant article in his cross-country columns on "Why I am against moonlighting for $18,000-a-year MPs."

Clouded Vision

Various headlines in the news, such as the unions rejecting a shipyard offer and giving an overwhelming "no" to a four-year contract, indicated the example set by our federal government members still seriously clouds our vision as to Canada's needs or welfare.

And the same unions sent a request to Ottawa suggesting more freight ships should be built on this western coast to help Canada to market her products, by creating a merchant marine.

Canada had a merchant marine until continuous strikes for increased pay ruined it and drove shipping into other countries with lower freight rates, making millionaires out of various operators of other nationality.

If we had the sense and gumption to realize that Canada's welfare and prosperity can be best illustrated by that of the trained athlete who can only reach his maximum potentiality when every portion of his body synchronizes in perfect unison.

I note the plumbers, too, have a new schedule, assuming, I suppose, that the unemployment scare can be taken care of by the federal government, when any reader can see the huge deficit that our finance minister is budgeting for.

As for me, I am 84 next birthday so my worrying over the future will soon be over, but I just hate to leave Canada in such a mess.

Surely the veterans who fade away in our midst deserve the amenities that stem from a grateful country. For it must be born in mind that sacrifice doesn't end on the battlefield. Instead, 'tis something to live with and endure. And ending neither in war nor peace; nor life, nor death. So that any move to alter administrative practice only emphasizes the special considerations involved.

However, a change in understanding could bring a change in administration. Sacrifice being of a dual nature. That of ourselves and that of our fellow man. But as these act in concert, all sacrifice is of one body—unless we decree otherwise.

No man in his own heart can help but feel for the veteran and for his hopes, fears and associations. And yet sacrificial flesh and blood is a communion and in this sense whole!

Man's integration is slow in coming, the tendency being to separate organization and with a desire to rub shoulders internally rather than at large. Quite understandable! but we can see that sacrifice embraces life as well as death—a greater concept of unity will follow.

Ensign Campaign

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

A YOUNG (36) Conservative MP from Nova Scotia's Cumberland constituency, Robert Carman Coates, is taking on Prime Minister Pearson in what could turn out to be not at all the David and Goliath battle that at first glance it might appear.

Seven years an MP and already a veteran of four federal general elections, Robert Coates has set out to change the prime minister's mind on the flag issue.

He's spearheading a national campaign to keep the Canadian Red Ensign, truly "a grand old flag," as he calls it.

This isn't going to be easy—but the way Robert Coates has been going about it, it just might turn out to be easier than it looks from this distance.

* * *

The battle lines are drawn. And hard.

Having included production and delivery of "a new and distinctive national flag," as he has called it, among his election promises, the prime minister periodically—as late as just the other day—has renewed the pledge.

He is on record with the firm undertaking of making good "within two years of the election," which gives him one still to go before getting into what almost guarantees to be deep trouble either with French or English Canada.

The PM has made it plain that the Red Ensign isn't the required flag because, as he has put it in correspondence with the Canadian Legion, it's neither "distinctive, national, easily identifiable nor above being mistaken for the emblem of any other country."

* * *

He's further in the record, this time in the Commons, with the pointed observation that Canada's national colors are red and white; and the national emblem, three red maple leaves on one stem on a field of white.

That might seem to decide it . . . except that there's Robert Coates and his campaign for the Red Ensign.

And how is his campaign coming along?

Very well, indeed, thank you.

Only the other day, the Commons heard that 93,312 Canadians had written to the PM plumping for the Red Ensign.

One, from Toronto, admonished him that "93,312 signatures must only be regarded as a modest beginning."

Another, from Montreal, protested "what's this about 93,312? Why, my own family prepared a petition with 3,000 names on it!"

And there was an enthusiastic note from Ottawa: "I am overjoyed that someone is doing something before it is too late to keep our Red Ensign."

* * *

Mr. Coates has the Royal Canadian Legion and its hundreds of thousands of members going for him in what is beginning to shape up as a great national "rally 'round a grand old flag."

And to keep the pressure building on the prime minister, he's pleading with every person he meets or with whom he corresponds to let Mr. Pearson know by individual letter and/or mass petition that it's the Red Ensign.

Robert Coates is convinced that if he can encourage enough Canadians to write to either the prime minister or State Secretary Maurice Lamontagne, he will win his case for the Red Ensign.

And what makes that flag so special?

Canadians fought and died under it, he recalls . . . they have saluted it in a hundred countries around the world and seen the salute returned by legions of foreign statesmen and fighting men . . . it is known in ports and capitals around the globe as Canada's flag . . . and we'll still have to fly it if we want to be recognized as Canadians, even if a new and supposedly "distinctive national flag" is chosen.

* * *

So write, write, write and bury the PM and the state secretary in a national avalanche of letters, begs Robert Coates, that "any government that bases its policies on Gallup or popularity polls can be made to understand by sheer unremitting public pressure."

Finally, Robert Coates has this one closing note . . .

. . . about the prime minister's apparent preference for the red and white he claims are the national colors, and the three red maple leaves on a single stem on a field of white he regards as the national emblem—"let's remember the historical significance of white."

"And, as every child knows, the maple leaves turn red only when they are about to wither and fall from the tree."

BACKGROUND

Situation Confused

Indonesian Trickery Jungle Ploy

By DENNIS BLOODWORTH, from Singapore

President Sukarno may soon make a show of beginning to withdraw the guerrillas Indonesia has infiltrated into Sarawak and Sabah, the former British North Borneo, simply to tempt Tunku Abdul Rahman of Malaysia to negotiate with him personally at a summit meeting.

The object would be to trick the Tunku into agreeing that a plebiscite should be held in these Borneo territories after three or five years to determine whether they really wanted to form part of Malaysia.

* * *

He would then have painlessly drawn the Malaysian premier's trump; the United Nations official finding last year that these two territories on the otherwise wholly Indonesian island of Borneo did wish to be states in the Malaysian federation and protected by Britain under a defence agreement.

* * *

Meanwhile, under cover of renewed diplomatic relations, Djakarta's agents would work among the Borneo peoples to create a majority demanding independence or union with Indonesia.

If the Tunku, encouraged by a victory in the general elections this month, stands firm, however, few doubt that British and Malaysian troops will be condemned to a long vigil in the jungle-covered frontier hills of North Borneo.

Under the present much-abused ceasefire there are still more than 300 anti-Malaysia terrorists, stiffened with regular Indonesian army cadres, operating on Malaysian territory. Between 1,000 and 2,000 more men are assembled in camps just over the border in Indonesian Borneo.

* * *

If the youthful Indonesian minister of defence, General Abdul Haris Nasution, ordered 1,000 more men into Sarawak following the recent build-up, the Anglo-Malaysian security forces would have to be doubled or even trebled.

However, Djakarta has to supply even those guerrillas concentrated on the Indonesian side of the frontier by airdrops that are frequently unsuccessful and depend on a few irreplaceable American transport aircraft.

Neutral military observers do not believe that the Indonesians could maintain more than a few hundred men at a time in Malaysian Borneo. Moreover, experience has shown that the guerrillas cannot live off the jungle once their rations are exhausted, and that their morale then drops rapidly towards surrender.

* * *

Confrontation has cost Indonesia her main trading outlet through Singapore, and all but $12,000,000 worth of annual aid from a disapproving America.

More than 2,000,000 people in Java are not getting enough rice to eat, and an Indonesian army survey reports that 100,000 men, women and children are "in dire need of food."

The "pro-Sukarno" left wing press claims that in central Java more than 15,000 farming families have sold up to get money to buy food, and the streets of Semarang and other towns in the region are crowded with half-starved beggars from the countryside.

* * *

Meanwhile, General Nasution has informed the cabinet that his recent investigation into mismanagement in state-owned enterprises has revealed "corruption of fantastic proportions involving hundreds of millions."

There are signs that President Sukarno is preparing for the day when he may want to switch confrontation from Malaysia to the muddle in his own backyard. He is already emphasizing that the drive for providing the masses with food and clothing is closely linked to the campaign to crush Malaysia, and the verbal sleight of hand will enable him to change his target without seeming to reverse his policy.

But it would be wrong to suggest that Indonesia's acute domestic problems will shake President Sukarno's determination to break up Malaysia and include some of the pieces in his own empire.

Almost impenetrable jungle compels infiltrators to move only along well-worn tracks or down streams leading to rivers like the one in the picture that runs north to South China Sea. Sukarno's Forces Threaten Singapore

The Indonesians have several platoons of parachutists and frogmen, as well as conventional troops, on one of the Rhio islands, within sight of Singapore, the prime minister of Singapore has disclosed.

Lee Kuan Yew said it must be expected that commandos and frogmen would try to blow up Singapore's harbor installations and sabotage the water and electricity services.

Cancer Patients

Portable Pump Defeats Death

By GEORGE GETZE, from Palm Beach, Fla.

Patients with some kinds of cancer can now walk around with a portable pump that keeps medicine flowing through the affected internal organs.

According to Dr. R. D. Sullivan, of the Lahey Foundation, Boston, the small self-contained pump weighs half a pound, is enclosed in an aluminum case and is carried around like a hearing aid.

A clock mechanism drives the fluid medicine through a catheter placed in an artery. A disposable plastic reservoir inside the case holds 25 cubic centimetres of concentrated drug solution.

* * *

Dr. Sullivan who described the pump at a seminar here, said the pump delivers to the affected organ every 24 hours exactly the right dose.

It can operate continuously for four to five days, and then can be recharged with new plastic containers of the drug.

The clock mechanism that keeps it going is wound by the patient himself every eight hours.

Dr. Sullivan said the pump was used on 25 patients. The drugs used are powerful, too powerful for some patients.

But of the 18 patients who were able to complete the full treatment of 85 days, 13 were benefitted enormously, Dr. Sullivan reported.

* * *

All had incurable cancer of the liver. In each of the 13, the livers returned to normal, or nearly normal, size. They lost the nausea that had bothered them, and regained their appetites.

Dr. Sullivan described one particular patient who showed the greatest improvement. His liver cancer had spread from the colon. He was first given the portable pump, or "infusion," treatment in November, 1962.

The man then went back to work until October, 1963, when signs of the cancer returned. The catheter through which the medicine had been infused into his liver had never been removed, so the treatment was resumed.

* * *

Dr. Sullivan said the man, with incurable and inoperable cancer, is again back at work and feeling well.

Infusion is not a new way of treating cancer, but this is the first description of a method in which only the affected organ is infused with drugs.

The two drugs used, nicknamed FUDR and FU, are poisonous to healthy cells as well as to cancer cells.

That is why the body has not been able to tolerate full treatment when they were fed into a whole section of the body. Now that a way has been found to apply the medicine only to the cancerous part itself, Dr. Sullivan feels, the infusion method shows a great deal more promise of being generally useful in treating cancer of the liver bile ducts and gall bladder.

Faisal Move Raises Middle East Tension

Power Balance at Stake

By ALAIN de LYROT, from Paris

The fact that Crown Prince Faisal has gained complete control of oil-rich Saudi Arabia by sweeping aside his older brother, King Saud, may have international repercussions. It could affect the whole balance of power in the Middle East.

The switch of power a few days ago seems to have placed Faisal in control of the fabulous desert kingdom. The resulting typical Middle East muddle may affect the 18-month-old war in Yemen and President Gamal Nasser's pan-Arabic ambitions.

* * *

Egypt's Nasser has deeply involved his army in the Yemen civil war. This conflict has been dragging without bringing victory to the republican side which he backs or to the royalist forces of deposed Imam Al Badr.

Nasser is therefore facing an embarrassing situation from which he hoped to extricate himself with the help of King Saud. The king recently switched from an anti-Nasser to a pro-Nasser policy in the hope of keeping himself in power in his country.

* * *

But now Nasser and Faisal will face negotiations on future policy in Yemen. The presence of Egyptian forces in that divided land has been a constant threat to Saudi Arabia which so far has resisted the pan-Arabic ambitions of Nasser.

These negotiations will determine the future of the Yemen civil war.

Nasser is believed anxious to withdraw his troops now mired in an inextricable conflict. However, he also is anxious to avoid losing face in the process. A compromise will have to be found whereby a regime can be created uniting the republican and royalist factions. This would permit the withdrawal of Egyptian troops from the scene and remove the threat to Saudi Arabia.

* * *

Nasser appears to have made a grave error by committing himself fully on the republican side in the civil war.

After 18 months of fighting nothing has been achieved. Nasser poured 40,000 troops into Yemen including paratroopers, two squadrons of Iliyushin bombers, two squadrons of Tupolev bombers as well as Yak and MiG fighter planes. There are also Egyptian helicopters and transport aircraft. Soviet aid is also being sought.

While Nasser's forces have complete air control, his ground forces and those of Yemen President Marshal Sallal have not been able to subdue the royalist tribes in the mountains.

* * *

There is another complication. It involves a long-standing Yemen claim on Aden and the South Arabian Federation, territories under the protection of Britain. This claim is backed by Nasser.

The return to power of Prince Faisal may provide a solution to this typically nasty situation if he and Nasser can reach some sort of compromise concerning the Yemen conflict.

Nasser and Faisal will meet in Cairo sometime this month. If Nasser agrees to abandon his action in Yemen, Faisal will be able to undertake reform and modernization in Saudi Aradia. In return a suitable compromise regime will have to be established in Yemen with the possible return to the throne of Imam Al Badr under a constitutional monarchy.

If not, the struggle will continue and will increasingly involve the British and the Soviets, thus creating the conditions for another typical Middle East uproar.

Cigarettes Bought Again

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market resumed its climb to historic peaks on the heaviest trading of 1964.

Heavy buying of airlines was once again a feature of the market. Cigarette stocks, encouraged by American Tobacco's report that sales of cigarettes in March were substantially higher than a year ago, also were bought eagerly.

Steels, motors, office equipments, aerospace issues as well as selected rails, coppers and chemicals were among the gainers.

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market registered its sharpest rise since Nov. 26, the first day of trading following president Kennedy's assassination, and the volume was the heaviest since September, 1962.

MacMillan-Bloedel was up ⅝ to 28¼ on 25,066 shares, including a special-sized transaction of 20,000 shares at $27.75 a share.

Brazilian Traction was ahead 80 cents to $3.10 on 70,284 shares after reaching a high of $3.15.

In senior metals, International Nickel advanced 1⅝ to 83¾, Consolidated Mining and Smelting ⅝ to 53¾ and Noranda ½ to 45¼.

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices continued to climb to record heights. For the sixth consecutive day the composite index reached an all-time high.

New Highs

Blue Chips Booming

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Although public interest is percolating through the more speculative type of securities, Canada's stock exchange boom is still finding its leadership in the "bluest" of the blue chips.

The shares which reached new highs in Thursday's torrid session on the Toronto Stock Exchange read like a page out of Debrett's peerage — Canadian Pacific Railway, Noranda, Aluminium, Consolidated Mining and Smelting, International Nickel, Falconbridge, Imperial Oil, Dominion Stores and B-A Oil.

Volume, too, jumped to 7,241,000 shares, up 1,500,000 from the previous day, and dealers noticed that more and more money was coming in from the small investor, who for months has either been sitting on the sidelines or dealing conservatively through the mutuals.

"Whenever the price of copper looks like mounting, there is usually an exciting mining market in Canada," said one dealer. "This present market rise is impressive but it is also selective. Copper, steels, and railways are leading the flock."

The various stock exchange indices at Toronto, Montreal and Vancouver, are either at or near all time highs, and if the volume of trading continues to rise, there will be historic evidence that a topping of the market may be in sight.

One interesting feature of the copper boom is that the domestic copper prices remain little changed, the London price has risen sharply to the equivalent of 41 cents a pound in Canadian funds.

NEARLY DOUBLED

In nearly doubling its net profit in the first six months of its current fiscal year, Ogilvie Flour says the greater part of the increase was due to large flour orders for shipment to Russia.

This will keep all the company's mills going at full capacity until the end of June, says Arthur Atkins, president. After that, he says, it will depend on the progress of Russian wheat crops this year whether Russian purchases of Canadian flour will be continued.

INCREASE EXPECTED

Trans-Mountain Oil Pipe Line in the first quarter of 1964 increased its deliveries by 5½ per cent over the corresponding period of 1963, and E. C. Hurd, president, told shareholders at the annual meeting in Vancouver this week he expected the whole year deliveries to be about 8 per cent better than a year ago.

He added that Trans-Mountain without further capital outlay could handle an extra 15 to 20 per cent in throughput.

MONEY RATE EASIER

Short-term money rates dropped slightly this week, after having been unchanged in the two previous weeks. The yield on the 91 days treasury bills sold Thursday was 3.87 per cent, compared with 3.88 per cent in the two previous weeks.

FINANCING COMPLETED

Proceeds of the new $20,000,000 5⅝ per cent issue series K bonds maturing April 15, 1988, being offered on the market at 99½, will be used to finance the company's $39,000,000 1964 capital expenditure program.

An official of the company said the remaining requirements would be met out of existing funds, and that no further public financing was anticipated this year.

No rights offering to common share holders is anticipated this year.

Four-Ship Flotilla Set to Seek Oil

VANCOUVER (CP) — A flotilla of four little ships will clear Vancouver early next week on a search for oil riches off the B.C. coast.

For the second straight year the exploration division of Shell Oil Company of Canada Limited is embarking on an extensive series of marine seismic surveys off the west coast of Vancouver Island and in Queen Charlotte Sound and Hecate Strait.

B.C.-OTTAWA DISPUTE

Shell is operating under survey licences granted by the federal government which are being protested by British Columbia. B.C. claims offshore mineral-oil rights. The disagreement between Ottawa and Victoria has still to be settled.

Four ships will take part in the search by Shell. They are the former U.S. minesweeper Miss Juanita, the former Royal Canadian naval research ship Cedarwood and the tugs Joan Lindsay and M. J. Scanlon.

SHIPS' USE TESTED

Miss Juanita and Cedarwood are designated as instrument vessels, carrying electronic equipment needed for surveys. The M. J. Scanlon will Lindsay will have scientific observers aboard.

Under an agreement with the federal fisheries department, observers will accompany the survey flotialla to ensure fish are protected during underwater detonation of explosives.

START IN SOUTH

Operations will begin off the southern tip of Vancouver Island, ranging about 35 miles offshore and will proceed northward to the northern end of the island. Then the flotilla will survey Hecate Strait, culminating at Prince Rupert about the end of August.

The project will employ 70 men, including the crews of the ships and the surveying teams. The ships will spend periods of about 10 days at sea followed by five or six days in port.

Kidney Nearly Normal

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. James Ackworth, a 44-year-old grandmother, visited Donald Bainbridge yesterday, five days after she gave him one of her kidneys to save his life.

Dr. B. D. Ragula, Mr. Bainbridge's physician, said the kidney, which was transplanted to the body of the 21-year-old man last Saturday, is functioning "close to normal."

SITS UP, SHAVES

Mr. Bainbridge was reported eating well and yesterday sat up and shaved himself for the second time since the operation.

Doctors continue to stress that it will be at least two weeks before it can be determined whether the transplant is successful.

Mrs. Ackworth volunteered her kidney when she heard that Mr. Bainbridge would die, possibly within a month, of glomerulo-nephritis, in which waste products are not filtered from the body by the kidneys.

Daughter Survives Transplant

BOSTON (CP) — Elizabeth Thompson, a nine-year-old Brandon, Man., girl, remained in satisfactory condition yesterday two days after she received a kidney transplant from her mother.

The operation was carried out on the girl and her mother, Mrs. Stuart Thompson, 46, in Peter Bent Brigham hospital here.

Nuclear Arms Curbs

Reds, U.S. Hold Talks

GENEVA (UPI) — The U.S. and the Soviet Union said yesterday they have been conducting private talks on a proposed agreement to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

Adrian S. Fisher, chief U.S. negotiator at the 17-nation disarmament conference, said the talks have failed so far, however, because the Kremlin is trying to "becloud the issue" with arguments against the American-backed multilateral nuclear force for NATO.

Semyon K. Tsarapkin, the Soviet Union's negotiator, said "we could have an agreement" if the U.S. would drop its plans for MLF. The Soviets regard the force as a ruse to give West Germany nuclear arms.

The agreement under discussion would bar nuclear powers from giving atomic arms to non-nuclear states and prevent non-nuclear states from making their own. It has been proposed by both the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

"There is general agreement that preventing the spread of nuclear weapons to nations not now controlling them is an urgent matter," Fisher said. "But an effort is being made to becloud this issue with essentially political arguments against the projected multilateral force."

Fisher said the force is "being devised to provide a responsibly-controlled deterrent in the face of a Soviet nuclear threat which includes hundreds of Soviet medium and intermediate-range ballistic missiles, armed with nuclear warheads and aimed at the densely-populated cities and industrial area of Western Europe."

He said member nations would not get national control over the force's weapons.

Money Cache NES Loot?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police have recovered a large cache of money believed from the $54,000 robbery of a National Employment Service vault in Vancouver.

The money, reported to total $10,000 was found in an east end house. Detectives released one man after six hours of questioning but two others arrested prior to discovery of the money are still in custody.

The Hush of Final Battle

By TERRY HAMMOND

Pictures by Karl Spreitz
for Chapman Studios

Flores Island

For the final skirmish in the white man's war against the Indian is taking place here—don't close the history books.

The echo of the last cannon shot has long since faded and the blood of the last massacre is dust.

The white man has put aside his musket, and the Indian his spear.

But the terms for truce are unconditional surrender and unconditional surrender is not yet here.

The spirit of resistance is gone but the instinct for survival still lives.

An enlightened white civilization that frowns on gunpowder and grapeshot has developed more sophisticated weapons—bureaucracy and red tape.

With bureaucracy you baffle your victim and with red tape you throttle him. With bureaucracy you hold out the helping hand and with red tape you snatch it away. With bureaucracy you create regulations which will tie the hands of your adversary.

Pens Replace Guns

There are no sounds to this battle but the sounds of pens scratching across government forms, typewriters clattering in welfare offices, rubber stamps banging on unemployment insurance books, the wind sighing through the crannies of an Ahousaht home and the tide licking the bones of a derelict fish boat.

The failure of the white man to make an honorable peace with the native civilization he displaced is nowhere more apparent than Ahousaht.

Here within a half day's journey from British Columbia's legislative and financial capitals of Victoria and Vancouver lives a forgotten people.

Ahousaht Village is a collection of weathered, grey, rot-infested shacks about 12 miles up the Island's west coast from Tofino. It is inhabited by 400 human beings. Of these a dozen have jobs, the rest exist on the scanty pickings of welfare and unemployment insurance.

The tiny, fire-trap homes crowd against each other in haphazard array with as many as 16 people occupying the space of two ordinary living rooms.

Sanitation facilities are primitive and only the pipes of a rudimentary community water system seal out the sewage which festers through the ground.

Living Ghost Town

Ahousaht is a ghost town whose people haven't got the word. Its homes are covered with moss, ravaged by decay. Broken windows are boarded over or stuffed with rags. Ancient siding hangs in tatters.

A government report recently claimed 49 of the 53 Indian houses were fit for human occupancy, but it didn't say by whose standards—not by mine, not by yours.

The same report says the federal Indian affairs branch has allocated more than $26,000 for housing and repairs since 1960 but where the money has gone remains a mystery. Was it spent? Where was it spent?

Five years ago, with federal assistance, a new home was built—the first for perhaps 30 years. There is talk of another one this year, but there was talk of it last year, too.

Not all of Ahousaht is an architectural nightmare. There are the Roman Catholic and United churches and the United Church manse.

Their sparkling paint and solid construction forms a sharp contrast with the village houses, which prompted a government official to write: "The impression is that the spiritual needs of the residents receive greater attention than their physical needs."

Amen.

There is also the Indian Affairs elementary school, a solid four-room structure with modern living quarters for as many teachers.

Children attending the school were hampered for a time in their quest for learning because they weren't able to do homework—the authorities were afraid of what would happen to books taken into the native home. But now, to circumvent this, an hour-long homework session is held in the school each night.

Many parents prefer to send their youngsters to a residential school in Port Alberni, where, they claim, a better education is offered.

Education Tough

A member of the Ahousaht council with two youngsters of identical ages sends one to Port Alberni and lets the other go to the village school. "They are in the same grade, but one can write a letter and the other can't," he said.

More and more of the village youngsters are seeking higher education, this man said, but it isn't easy.

Two Ahousaht boys are at UBC—one gets government assistance and one doesn't.

Why?

"The boy in second year gets help because he is past his first year. The boy in first year . . . well the government doesn't like to take a chance on the first-year ones."

The first-year student earns a few dollars fishing between semesters to pay his way.

Can an Ahousaht girl find work to enter university?

"There is no work for girls."

Mark Atleo is a member of the five-man Ahousaht band council whose major task seems to be to wrestle with the authorities for a better deal for the Ahousahts.

After Plans, Nothing

"There is very much planning. Always there are new plans for this or that. But after the planning, nothing."

He has faint praise, indeed, for the Indian Affairs branch.

"When we go to them for something they try to discourage us. There is some stumbling block. First they go hot and then they go cold. They do not encourage us. They say there is some problem."

Do they get regular visits from Indian Affairs officials?

"Man comes in a boat, usually every month. It is very hard for us to deal with him.

"All the time he's got one foot on the dock and the other foot on the boat."

Just as he and his fellow councilmen are baffled by the federal branch whose job it is to help the Indian, so are they baffled by the provincial welfare department.

"Many of us here are on welfare. For some families there is nothing else. But they do not get the same welfare as the white people in other places.

"There is George Louie. He and his wife and 11 children and they get $136 a month welfare. White men near the city with six kids get $190.

"The welfare tell us, 'you don't have to pay for fuel and electric light, so you don't need so much.'

"Then there is Fichter Titian. He's got 11 children, too, but he gets more than George Louie. I don't know why. Something wrong in the office, maybe."

As bad as the marginal sums of welfare, says Mark Atleo, is the fact that it often takes months for the authorities to recognize and provide for a new addition to a family.

Wheels Grind Slowly

"Sometimes the form is badly made out and it comes back. Sometimes just nothing happens. The welfare naver makes up the time it takes to get the payment increased."

Mark Atleo takes his responsibility as a band councillor seriously.

He knows that in the semi-wilderness surrounding Ahousaht there is little hope for work for his people. But if work comes along, he has the names of the men who can do it.

"We need about 35 more jobs now," he says, with an air of resignation.

Had the forest firms with adjacent timber been asked to launch logging programs in the vicinity of the village to provide work?

Food or Clothing?

"I have tried to find work several years now but there is nothing."

He gets $136 a month in welfare, plus family allowance for his 11 children—a total of about $200..

How do you feed and clothe such a family on that income?

"It is very hard. We feed the children a lot of starches. It is not good for them, Maybe one day a week we have a little piece of meat. If we buy enough food, there is not enough for clothing. If we buy clothing there is not enough food."

George Louie lives in a house about 16 by 24, with a windowed attic. It would be crowded with 11 children, but in addition to his own family he has taken in a married daughter and her husband and their three children. They, too, draw social assistance.

He used to earn a living as a fisherman but gradually his boat rotted away beneath him and there was no money to preserve it.

This is the story of the Ahousaht fishing fleet. From more than 30 vessels a few years ago it has dwindled to about 20, the council said.

Cosmos Frank is a fisherman and he has one of the better boats in the fleet.

He takes it out with the "big boats" as far as 20 miles off the west coast of Vancouver Island where the open Pacific takes its toll in human lives every year.

"Isn't it pretty dangerous?"

"You get used to it."

You get used to it or you get drowned. Council members couldn't remember just how many village residents had been lost at sea in recent years but there had been "quite a few."

The last drowning was earlier this year when an Ahousaht fishboat unexplainably sank as it approached the harbor. Twenty-year-old Larry Paul went down with it, leaving a widow and child in the village.

The children of Ahousaht, like their parents, are solemn. Even at play a smile comes rarely. Some are clean, but many are not, and most of the younger ones have chronic sniffles, A few have open sores on arms and legs.

Paul Sam, 70, was born in the village, is the hereditary speaker for the hereditary Ahousaht chiefs.

Indian's Things Taken

"The Indian and the white man are brothers now, but the Indian can no longer be Indian and he can't be white.

"The white man has taken away the things of the Indian. The world is revolving ahead and the Indian has to go ahead, too, but it is not easy.

"This was a fishing village, but the salmon are going because the white man has not cared for the spawning beds and the cod have been over-fished by the trawlers.

"The clams have died from the waste of the herring reduction plants.

"The sea otter is gone and we can no longer shoot the seal.

"Now we can't even cut down a tree to make a dugout. We must use a piece of driftwood and it splits.

"Many things we tried to tell the white man in the beginning, but he would not listen.

"We told the white man the seals eat the salmon and after a little while they tied up a salmon with a seal and the seal did not eat it. We asked them if they touched the salmon with their hands, and they say 'yes'. We told them that is why the seal won't eat the salmon but they don't listen. They say the seal not eat salmon.

"When we can hunt seal now we have to spear it. We are not allowed to shoot. When you spear a seal he dies slowly, in an hour. Maybe someone should tell the SPCA.

White Man Mystery

"Many things I do not understand about the white man. Years ago when we had the TB, they built hospitals for TB. But always they sent the person there too late. When they come back, they come back in a box.

"The white man gives us welfare . . . $22 for man and $15 for woman. Tell me, is woman's stomach smaller than man's?

"I thank the white man for many things. I thank him for hospitals and for schools. I thank him for trousers but I don't understand him.

"Many years ago, I think 1927, the white man said to start farms and grow food. There is no place to farm here at Ahousaht so we start farms on other lands of ours and the vegetables grow. But nobody live at the farms, we live at Ahousaht, and the white man came in fishing boats and stole our food.

"Now Ahousahts can't live like Indians, but white man has no jobs for us.

"Maybe by-and-by there be no Ahousaht village, but before that many years will come. Many of my people are not happy. They would like jobs."

Yes, the Indian and the white man are brothers now — just as Cain and Abel were brothers long ago.

Walk softly down the packed earth paths of Ahousaht Village where the final skirmish in the white man's war against the Indian is taking place — don't close the history books.

Unconditional surrender may be just around the corner.

Speaker of the Ahousahts, Paul Sam

"The Indian and the white man are brothers now . . ."

". . . But I don't understand my white brother"

Liz' Firm Suing Studio

LOS ANGELES (CP) — MCL Films, a corporation in which actress Elizabeth Taylor is a major stockholder, is suing 20th Century Fox Productions Limited, charging it failed to abide by a distribution contract for the film, Cleopatra.

Miss Taylor starred in the film.

The suit, filed in federal court, claims 20th Century failed to pay MCL a percentage of the gross agreed upon under the contract.

The studio contends Miss Taylor was absent more than 40 days during the making of the movie, thus nullifying the contract.

But Miss Taylor's lawyers say the distribution contract was with the corporation, not with the actress herself.

The suit asks the court to place all prints and negatives of the film in receivership.

MCL was formed when Miss Taylor and singer Eddie Fisher were married. They jointly own 85 per cent of the stock. The rest is divided among agents and lawyers.

From East Zone

West Will Allow More Red Travel

BERLIN (Reuters) — The three Western powers have decided to ease restrictions on East Germans wishing to travel to NATO countries, an allied statement said here Thursday.

After the Berlin wall was built in 1961, the allied travel office here stopped issuing the necessary "temporary travel document in lieu of passport" to East Germans.

Only a few exceptions were made, mainly for businessmen.

Thursday's statement said the United States, Britain and France had decided to approve more East German applications for travel documents.

"However, the travel documents will be granted . . . only on condition that they refrain while in NATO countries from political activities in support of so-called GDR (East Germany)," the allied statement said.

Workshop to Teach How to Meet Tourists

A series of one-day conferences, aimed at educating the man who meets the tourist face-to-face, is planned for various B.C. centres this month.

A spokesman for the B.C. government travel bureau said last night that the courses are aimed especially at those who deal directly with the tourist.

He said they also are intended to educate the public about the importance of tourism to the economy.

He said the conferences will involve a workshop type of program, with a key figure from the tourist industry speaking at each one-day conference.

The conferences are sponsored jointly by the travel bureau, the B.C. department of education, the B.C. Hotels Association, the Canadian Restaurant Association and the B.C. Motels and Resorts Association.

Oak Bay

Long-Term View Taken On Recreation Centre

Oak Bay has sacrificed some short-term financial savings in favor of long-range considerations in its plans for a proposed municipal recreation centre, the Oak Bay reeve says.

In a letter to Oak Bay ratepayers, Reeve Allan Cox said they will vote April 25 on a proposal to build the centre. The letter says a site at the intersection of Foul Bay and Cadboro Bay Roads has been selected.

GRANTS CUT COST

The letter says the total capital cost of the centre has been estimated at $1,421,000 but federal and provincial grants will reduce the net cost to Oak Bay ratepayers to $983,292.

This, the letter said, would work out in Oak Bay to 2.27 mills a year during a 20-year period, or $17 a year for the owner of a home valued at $15,000.

SLIGHT LOSS

The reeve said in an interview last night that the 2.27-mill figure takes into account a slight revenue loss from the loss of taxes on the houses now on the site.

The letter sent to Oak Bay ratepayers says: "A cheaper building could be built and no doubt considerable cost could be saved by locating the building in one of our existing park areas, but council feels that these are short-term views."

BETTER ADVISED

It continues: "In the long run, the people of Oak Bay would be better advised to pay the additional cost to obtain a good building . . . located where it will obtain the maximum usage and be most readily accessible to all of our citizens."

Reeve Cox said last night that the revenue saving if the centre were built on parkland would be offset some years later when a future council would be faced with the necessity of buying even more expensively developed land for park purposes.

PRIZE LOCATION

He said the location picked by council is considered a prize one in that few neighboring residences would be affected by the centre and the next-door Oak Bay Junior and Senior High Schools would help boost the centre's revenue.

The letter estimated 30.7 per cent of the capital cost will come from the senior governments — $250,000 from federal and provincial government winter works grants and $187,708 in estimated "forgiveness" under the federal government's Municipal Development and Loan Act.

AWAIT APPROVAL

The letter said even if ratepayers approve the proposal Oak Bay won't proceed with the centre unless these grants are formally approved.

"It is impossible to be certain on this point but council believes that revenue should equal or exceed operational expense once the project is in full operation."

The site chosen is bounded on the north by stores on Cadboro Bay Road, on the south by Goldsmith Street, on the west by Foul Bay Road and on the east by school grounds.

The proposed centre would include a hockey and skating rink, a curling rink, an enclosed heated swimming pool, senior citizens' recreation rooms and other things.

"The buildings proposed will not be extravagantly elaborate but they will be comfortably appointed and attractive."

The letter said building and land cost estimates are believed to be "on the generous side."

They are $400,000 for land acquisition, $833,000 for construction, $80,000 for design, supervision and so on, and $108,000 for paving, landscaping, movable equipment and furnishings.

MILES OF NEWSPRINT

A paper mill in Tennessee recently produced its 3,000,000th ton of newsprint, or 44,000,000 miles of newsprint if cut into a continuous 30-inch strip.

Timmy Lands A Fish

Little Timmy, Victoria's Easter seal campaign mascot, and his family dined on fresh fish at dinner last night and there was something sort of personal about the party — Timmy caught the fish himself.

The Daily Colonist Compleat Angler for 1963, Sid Upton, 825 Colville, took Timmy for the afternoon trip from Hall's Boathouse.

During the trip a 20-pounder and two smaller fish got away, but Timmy was still able to land his trophy, a three-pound spring salmon.

Overburdened

Counsellors Worried

VANCOUVER (CP)—School counsellors heard themselves described Thursday as a troubled and overburdened group.

"The ever-increasing number of disturbed and difficult children in our society make the counsellor's job more necessary and more difficult all the time," said Stanley Perkins of Victoria.

A counsellor himself, Mr. Perkins was addressing the annual meeting of the B.C. Secondary School Counsellors' Association.

He said counselling should be a full-time position, yet there are only two full-time special counsellors in the entire province.

"An efficient, effective counsellor cannot be a teacher, too," he said.

Mr. Perkins said he does not believe counsellors should be called on to supervise playgrounds, halls or cafeterias.

"You cannot be giving orders one minute and then be talking confidentially with problem students the next."

Sevenoaks Expansion

Next Move Up to Province

Sevenoaks centre for emotionally disturbed children is ready for expansion, and has even obtained some funds for the program, an official said yesterday. The next step is up to the provincial government.

James Mair, treatment director at the centre said a two-phase renovation program is planned for the Blenkinsop Road site. Each phase will provide accommodation for five additional children. Fourteen are now cared for there.

ALREADY PROMISED

Capital money, estimated at $25,000, has already been promised by the Family and Children's Service, which will contribute from its trust funds.

The stumbling block now is provincial government approval of funds to carry out year-to-year operation of the existing and new space.

Mr. Mair would not say how much would be required to operate the expanded centre, but said provincial money would be added to the current $80,000 operating budget.

He said centre officials and directors were "optimistic" the expansion could be completed by this fall.

"Sevenoaks has always been very well treated by the government," Mr. Mair said, "and we have every reason to believe this help will continue."

WELL TREATED

He told a Victoria service club yesterday the centre could be filled "four times over" from the Victoria area alone. "For every child I admit, I turn down two or three."

"Most of the children I turn down just smolder in their homes until they are so delinquent they are incarcerated in the provincial training school, or become so mentally ill they are placed in adult wards in Essondale Mental Hospital."

Fire attributed to a faulty oil heater caused an estimated $1,800 damage to the Carey Home Service Station at Tillicum and Carey early yesterday.

The blaze started shortly before 6:30 a.m. and spread to the walls and ceiling of the building. There was extensive smoke damage to automotive parts, the walls and ceiling, and two cars that were stored in the building. Damage to the cars was estimated at an additional $200 each.

The station is leased by John Emery, 3870 Carey Road.

In Front of Bus

Boy One of Three Hurt in Mishaps

A young passenger who ran in front of a parked bus he had just left to cross the street was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital after being struck by a car at 5:30 p.m. yesterday.

The accident was one of two in Saanich yesterday that sent three people to hospital.

Ten-year-old Stanley Lorne McInnes, 1682 Derby, was admitted for observation of a possible head injury after he was hit by a car driven by Ulrich Liedtke, 5830 Old West Road.

Driver Gale Norton, 16, 3199 Henderson, and passenger Stephen Harvey, 16, 3620 Santa Clara, were taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital, treated and released after their car went off Barrie Road at Torquay at 4 p.m. and slammed into an arbutus tree.

Police said the car was demolished.

Seal-Hunting Methods Protested by SPCA

The B.C. Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals with its counterparts in other parts of Canada, is seeking public support for its fight against seal-hunting methods on the Arctic ice pack.

Eastern branches of the society have recently protested the annual hunt by Russian, Norwegian and Canadian hunters.

PUPS KILLED

The B.C. group says 300,000 seals are killed each year—200,000 of them pups under three weeks old.

The younger ones are clubbed, the society says, and the remainder "indiscriminately killed by rifle fire by every crew member who thinks he can handle a rifle."

LITTLE CONTROL

Much of the hunting is done in international waters, where little control can be maintained over the hunters.

The matter has been raised in the House of Commons, but the SPCA says the problem can only be solved by an international convention.

"Parties to the Whaling Convention have ignored their agreements," says D. H. Beeching, executive director of the B.C. branch in Victoria.

"Nevertheless, we would urge everyone to do their utmost in bringing public opinion to bear on this problem."

By TOM WILLIAMS

TORONTO (CP) — Big Frank Mahovlich paced Toronto Maple Leafs to a 5-3 victory over Montreal Canadiens Thursday night as Leafs tied their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final at two victories each in a game that started and ended with free-for-all fighting.

Mahovlich scored two goals and three assists as he led the line of Red Kelly and George Armstrong in domination of the Canadiens every time they were on the ice. Kelly and Armstrong each scored a goal and Andy Bathgate counted the other Toronto marker.

BOWER SHAKY

J. C. Tremblay, Jean Beliveau and Jacques Laperriere scored for Canadiens, all on long shots as Leafs goaltender Johnny Bower played one of his shakiest games of the season.

Canadiens were assessed a total of 55 minutes in penalties, including two 10-minute misconducts and three major fighting penalties. Leafs took 47 minutes, including one misconduct and three fighting majors.

The series resumes at Montreal Saturday night, with sixth game back here next Tuesday and the seventh, if necessary Thursday, April 9, back at Montreal.

Leafs dominated play most of the way, starting with Bathgate's power play goal at 2:59 of the first period. They capitalized on three more Montreal penalties for goals, while Canadiens counted one with a manpower advantage and scored another while both teams were a man short in the first period.

The fighting erupted at 3:47 of the first, with Leafs Ron Stewart and Canadiens Dave Balon pairing off in one bout and Toronto's Eddie Shack tangling with Canadiens Henry Richard in the other.

Stewart took a split decision from Balon, landing a couple of good punches, while Richard battled Shack to a draw until the Leaf player butted him and drew blood from the little centre's brow.

STARTED BY STEWART

Stewart was given an elbowing penalty—with referee John Ashley recognizing his role as instigator in the outburst—and a five-minute major. Balon, Shack and Richard took majors and Leafs Bob Pulford and Canadiens Claude Provost received minor roughing sentences.

The bad feeling boiled up again with five seconds remaining in the third, during which Leafs protected their lead with a monotonous checking barrage.

STARTED SWINGING

Hardrock John Ferguson barrelled into Stewart behind the Montreal nets and they started swinging, with the Montreal winger landing a couple of good punches before a swarm of officials and players tied them up.

Bathgate opened the scoring with a fine shot to a corner and J. C. Tremblay squared it with a flip shot from just inside the blue line which took a crazy bounce and went in high.

OPEN NET

Canadiens seemed to be having an edge when Armstrong scored Leafs' second goal after Charlie Hodge had difficulty with one of those flip shots, made by Mahovlich. He came far out to make the save but the puck got away and Armstrong came up to hit the open net.

It was 2-1 with Canadiens opening the second period on the attack when Armstrong was allowed to keep the puck long enough to hit Kelly with a perfect pass as his linemate cruised into position.

LONG SHOT

Kelly ripped in a 20-footer to make it 3-1 and it was the Leafs all the way after that. Mahovlich was at the side to slap in Kelly's rebound for 4-1 before Beliveau connected with a long shot which deflected off a Toronto defenceman.

But a penalty to Claude Provost killed Montreal's faint hopes completely as Mahovlich whacked in Don McKenney's across-goal pass in the last minute of the second period.

Laperriere hit with his long shot in the first minute of the third period but the Leafs, often content just to feed the puck back into Montreal territory, were never seriously threatened.

Overtime Victory Goes to Chicago

DETROIT (CP)—Murray Balfour tipped in Stan Mikita's blueline drive to give Chicago Black Hawks a 3-2 overtime victory Thursday night—their first triumph on Detroit ice this season—and square their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final at two games apiece.

The 27-year-old right winger, who returned to action in the post-season series for the first time since suffering a groin injury late in January, broke up the game at 8:21, just four seconds after Red Wing defenceman Bill Gadsby returned to the ice after sitting out a holding penalty.

BEST FOR HAWKS

The Hawks, who played their best game of the series, twice came from behind to whip the Wings who had rung up 5-4 and 3-0 victories after dropping the series opener 4-1 at Chicago. The teams move to Chicago for Sunday's fifth game and return here Tuesday for the sixth.

Goalkeeper Roger Crozier, 22, was the victim of the Hawk victory. He had taken over early in the second period from Terry Sawchuk who went out with a recurrence of a shoulder injury he suffered last Sunday night. The Wings were ahead 2-1 at the time on goals by Parker MacDonald and Gordie Howe.

HORNET GOALIE

The youngster, regular netminder with Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League, went into goal at 1:56 of the second period and had 19 saves before Balfour, standing just outside the crease, got a piece of Mikita's long blast to send the puck into a corner of the nets.

Ab McDonald and defenceman Pierre Pilote, who scoed on a gift goal midway through the third to tie the game 2-2, were the other Hawk marksmen.

HIGH BOUNCER

Alex Delvecchio, an old National Hockey League pro and a nifty playmaker with the Wings, was the unfortunate victim of Pilote's counter, a 30-footer that bounced high in the air off Crozier's pads and trickled behind the goal. The youngster, playing in his first cup game, momentarily lost sight of the puck.

Delvecchio, now in his 13th season with the Wings, laid the puck on the Chicago team captain's stick as he tried to clear from inside the Detroit blueline. Pilote took two steps and let go.

SOLID DEFENCE

With the scored tied 1-1, Howe popped in his 50th playoff goal at 1:19 of the second period. He was parked directly in front of Hall, grabbed a rebound and eased the puck into an open corner. That point brought his playoff total to 126, equalling the record established by the retired Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens.

Parker MacDonald had put the Wings ahead 1-0 at 7:15 of the first period with the Hawks' Elmer Vasko looking on from the penalty box. The big defenceman had returned only 17 seconds when Ab McDonald tied it 1-1 at 8:04 from a goal-mouth scramble.

FIRST PERIOD

1—Detroit, MacDonald (1) (Ullman, Delvecchio) 7:15.

2—Chicago, McDonald (2) (Wharram, Mikita) 8:04.

Penalties—Barkley 1:33, M. Pronovost 3:31, Wharram 3:31, Vasko 5:44, Pilote 8:24, MacNeil (double minor), A. Pronovost (double minor) 10:47, A. Pronovost 15:08, Maki 18:57.

SECOND PERIOD

3—Detroit, Howe (2) (Ullman, MacDonald) 1:19.

THIRD PERIOD

4—Chicago, Pilote (2) 9:34. Penalty—MacNeil 5:01.

Abel Sticks With Rookie

DETROIT—Roger Crozier, 22-year-old rookie who had to be summoned from the press box early in the second period last night when Terry Sawchuk was unable to carry on, will be in goal in Chicago Sunday.

"We'll leave Sawchuk here for an extra rest for the sixth game here Tuesday night," Detroit-coach Sid Abel said after the game.

GWEN LOUDOUN . . . thrilled

Victoria Girl Sees Her NHL Heroes

Most of her memories are still to be made but no matter what happens to her here it isn't likely that there will be much that can overshadow the events of the past week for 17-year-old Gwen Loudoun.

Gwen is the young lady (Colonist, March 19) who spent the best part of last summer saving every cent she could earn—$63 from berry-picking and another $32 from a laundry job—in an attempt to realize a heart-felt ambition.

She wanted to see the Toronto Maple Leafs play, and her parents had promised to put up half the cost of the trip if she could save the other half. She missed by $25 but a brother came to her rescue and Gwen headed Eastward last week, making her first airplane trip and travelling alone.

She saw the Leafs play Tuesday night, when they blew a game to Montreal Canadiens, 2-3, in the last three minutes. Last night, all the effort really became worthwhile.

The Leafs won, 5-3, and Gwen made a happy appearance before the nation-wide television audience between the second and third periods.

Interviewed by Ward Cornell she came through with remarkable composure, almost completely covering up her nervousness with considerable poise and a great deal of tact.

Live NHL action, she said, was everything she had expected it would be and "Davey" Keon was still at the top of her list of hockey heroes, which also included Frank Mahovlich and New York defenceman Harry Howell, who was in the same room as a guest commentator for the game.

Gwen remains in Toronto until April 11. There's another game there next Thursday, you know, and it could put the Maple Leafs into the Stanley Cup final.

Kimberley To Face Saskatoon

KIMBERLEY, B.C. (CP) — Kimberley Dynamiters advanced to the western Canada Allan Cup semi-finals by defeating the Alberta champion Lacombe Rockets, 7-4, in the fifth and deciding game played before 2,058 fans here Thursday night.

The win climaxed a Dynamiter uphill battle. Kimberley dropped both games of the best-of-five series in Lacombe, 7-5, and 4-3, but bounced back to win the next three by scores of 7-2, 8-5 and Thursday night's 7-4 victory.

The Dynamiters now meet Saskatoon, the Saskatchewan senior "A" champions, Saturday night in Saskatoon in the first of a best-of-seven series.

It marked the first time that Kimberley has represented B.C. in the Allan Cup since 1947.

Clay Could Quit Boxing For Teaching

CHICAGO (AP) — World heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, here for meetings of the Black Muslim sect, says he may quit boxing and accept a $100,000 offer to teach sports in Egypt, Chicago's American reported Thursday.

Clay, 22, said the offer was from the Egyptian government, which has promised to build a sports centre in his name in Cairo.

Clay will leave in three weeks for Africa and parts of Asia, he said, on a tour during which he will discuss the Egyptian job with officials in Cairo.

The fighter, who dethroned Sonny Liston Feb. 25, said he met for four hours Wednesday night with Elijah Muhammad, Black Muslim founder.

Clay signed autographs: "Muhammad Ali, the champ."

Lethbridge Club Too Good

Broders Eliminate Athletics

By DON PILLING
Sports Editor,
Lethbridge Herald

LETHBRIDGE — Lethbridge Broders won a basketball game by five points Wednesday night and Coach Dean Bennett said his club was much better than what they showed. Broders won another game last night at the sports centre, and, like Bennett said, they were better, much better.

The three-time Canadian champions unloaded their big guns with reckless abandon in a scorching attack in the second half to kayo Alberni Athletics, 91-82, and move into the western final against Winnipeg Buffaloes. It's a best-of-five series that opens in the Manitoba capital Monday night.

Broders, three-time Canadian champions, were the pace-setters pretty well all the way last night in the wrapup of the best-of-three western semi-final. They led, 12-10, after five minutes of play and were never headed although the Athletics did manage to battle back early in the second half to tie the score. That, however, was when their spurt sputtered and died for the night, and Broders won going away.

Lanky Gordie Fester, who rattled in 37 points in Broders' 88-83 victory Wednesday night, popped in 25 more last night while Ken Larsen added 22 and Don McClain contributed 17 to the cause.

Sig Kuehn led Alberni in an unsuccesful effort to prolong the series with 19 points. Neil Dirom checked in with 16 while John Kootnekoff, with 11, and Denny Grisdale and Doug Brinham, with 10 each, were the others to hit double figures.

ROUGH ACTION

It was a rough battle, sometimes rowdy and sometimes chippy, with tempers flaring frequently in the final few minutes. A total of 51 fouls were called by referees Wes Rice and Ira Bourne. Broders picked up 20 and Alberni 31 with Fester fouling out for Broders and Mike Potkonjak and Dirom for Alberni.

Coach Elmer Speidel of the Athletics offered no alibis for the two-straight elimination.

"This Lethbridge club is a whale of a ball club," he said. "They are big, rough and rugged, and it's going to take quite an effort to beat them."

He even went so far as to predict the Broder crew will roll to a fourth Canadian title.

"They have great personnel," said Speidel. "They absolutely killed us with their outside shooting and their rebounding. We tried but we couldn't match them. Every time we got close they'd ram two or three quick ones in. That's the story."

Speidel took a pot-shot or two at the referees. "It's a shame," he said, "that they let the game get out of hand. It was ridiculous at times."

Athletics—Dirom 16, Brinham 10, Grisdale 10, Kootnekoff 11, Potkonjak 6, Taylor 0, Lehtonen 7, Johnson 1, McPherson 2, Kuehn 19, Total—82.

Rider Back Quits Grid

Purdin was mentioned in recent trade talks with the Ottawa Rough Riders. However, this did not effect his decision to retire. He has a full-time job with the provincial fitness and education branch and felt it would interfere with his work if he continued playing with the Roughriders.

University School Home from Rugby Tour

Best of British Boys' Teams Bowed

A tired but elated University School rugby team returned to Victoria yesterday after a two-week tour of the United Kingdom which saw it defeat some of the best boys' teams in Britain.

In its five games University School scored 50 points and conceded 11. It defeated Eton, the Cardiff high school champions, Hawarden, Stowe, and Mill Hill, and was unfortunate in losing its last match, 5-0, to Harrow.

The Harrow game was a rather ill-starred affair. A mix-up in scheduling resulted in its being played two days later than University School officials expected.

Then before the game, tall forward Cameron Crofton injured a knee and had to be taken out of the first 15.

And after only a few minutes of play wing three-quarter Matthew Kelly was kicked in the kidneys, and the University School finished the match with 14 players.

Neither of the two was injured seriously however.

Colts Acquire Muscles In Young Jim Wynn

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Extra-inning home runs by Jim Wynn of Houston and Joe Torre of Milwaukee powered the Colts and Braves to victories Thursday in exhibition baseball combat which saw a flurry of one-run decisions.

Wynn also slugged a home run with one aboard in the eighth off Jack Fisher to tie the game 4-4.

Torre's homer with a man on carried the Braves to a 7-5 decision over Pittsburgh in 11 innings. The 23-year-old catcher belted four hits in all, raising his spring average to .500.

Koufax duelled with St. Louis' Ernie Broglio for six innings before the Cards broke the scoreless deadlock. Koufax gave up one hit and Broglio two through the first six. But in the seventh three singles, Koufax' only walk and a sacrifice fly accounted for two St. Louis runs.

Ken McBride continued his impressive pitching exhibition, but Los Angeles Angels had to hold on for a 6-5 triumph over Chicago Cubs. McBride won his fourth game against one defeat as the Angels piled up a 6-2 lead after two innings.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

Steelhead fishing is waning in some rivers but remains fair in others, trout fishing is picking up, Northwest Bay is coming on hot for grilse, Saanich Inlet seems to be in a seasonal fishing lull.

That is the broad fishing outlook.

There will be some steelhead fishing right into May, but as warm weather approaches thoughts turn to trout fishing.

In the Campbell River area on the Easter weekend a lot of trout fishermen got skunked, but others who fished the smallest lakes of the Sayward Forest made a killing.

One party took 105 trout out of Blackwater Lake, which is nothing much more than a mud hole adjacent to Morton and Mohun Lakes.

The fish have started to rise in Lower Campbell. Middle Quinsam produced fair catches. There is some fair fly fishing below Strathcona Dam with wet flies like black gnats, March browns, teal and silvers.

There are plenty of sea-run cuts at the mouth of the Campbell, wih first of the flood tides best time. The same conditions apply to most of the east coast rivers now.

Quinsam River had a good run of steelies at the weekend, but they may have moved up. Oyster River also had a fresh steelie run. Rivers are low.

Salmon River fishing has fallen off, but the river was rising again mid-week and a fresh run may come.

Tsolum and Puntledge Rivers at Courtenay have been good for both steelies and trout.

Big and Little Qualicum Rivers are still about the best bets for steelhead and trout, although a greater number of kelts are showing up. Best times have been early mornings and late afternoons on rising tides.

Steelhead fishing has fallen off in Nanaimo River, but trout fishing is improving.

Nanaimo Lakes haven't yet come on hot for trout, but Quennell and Extension are rated fair.

A seven-pound brown was taken from lower reaches of the Cowichan Tuesday. Pretty well anywhere along the Cowichan has been good for trout, with lower reaches best. There are still steelies to be taken. Koksilah River has been fairly hot around the Hillbank area for steelies and lower reaches for trout.

Somenos, Quamichan, Dougan, Fuller, Wheddle are all producing trout and gang troll and worm worked well for Walter Clements and Ivan Patrick Sunday at the south end of Shawnigan Lake.

biggest concentration around the Gap between Chatham

Blues in Finlayson Arm went off the bite at the weekend, but could come back on anytime. The blues seemed to have thinned out and spread all along the shores from the Narrows, on either side of McKenzie Bay and Quarry Bay. There is scattered spring salmon fishing all over Finlayson Arm and Saanich Inlet, but nothing spectacular.

Biggest VSIAA fish of last week was a 16:12-pounder landed by Ron Ekstrom off Willis Point.

Crofton has been good for grilse and blues, especially in early morning, with a Tom Mack spoon and eight ounces of weight getting them. Under the power line in Sansum Narrows has also been good.

Sunday, starting at 1 p.m., sees the first invitational trap shoot of the newly formed Vancouver Island Shooting League.

Victoria Fish and Game Club will be host at its Goldstream Club traps and five-man teams and individuals from all over the Island have been invited to take part in competitions with a plaque to be awarded for the winning team and brassards for winning team members and high gun.

The Victoria club plans to field three or more teams and Nanaimo has already signed to send two teams.

Practice time will be 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Legion Club Retains Championship

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver Mount Pleasant Legion hung on during the last half to defeat Hamilton Kittens, 56-51, and win the Canadian junior women's basketball championship in three straight games.

The same two teams met in Hamilton last year, Vancouver emerging the victor in four games.

Hot 64 Leads Greensboro

Veteran Snead Kicks Up Heels

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Professional Golfers Association senior champion, Sam Snead showed his heels to the youngsters Thursday, shooting a record-equalling 64 to take the first round lead by three strokes in the $35,000 Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament.

The jaunty 51-year-old ex-Virginia hillbilly shot eight one-under-par holes in putting together nines of 33-31 against par of 36-35 for the 7,000-yard Sedgefield Country Club course.

He tied the tournament record, missing a record when his 25-foot putt on the final green stopped three inches short of the hole.

Snead has compiled a fantastic record here, winning seven times, including the inaugural tournament in 1938. He has finished second or third on eight occasions and has taken away more than $27,000 in winnings.

Going into today's round of the 72-hole tournament, he holds a three-shot edge over Bill Dunk, youthful Australian, and George Bayer.

Six men were tied at 69, including British Open champion, Bob Charles.

Among those grouped at 69 was Canadian Al Johnston of Montreal with rounds of 35-34. One stroke back was Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg with rounds of 36-34—70.

Other Canadians in the field were Al Balding of Toronto, 37-38—75; Jerry Magee of Toronto, 39-36—75; and Vancouver's touring pro Stan Leonard, 37-39—76.

Also at 70 were favorites Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus.

Heart Attack Stops Birdie

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Doctors were reported satisfied Thursday with the condition of Birdie Tebbets, Cleveland Indians manager who suffered a heart attack late Wednesday night.

Paul said Tebbetts, 54, was described by his attending physician, Dr. Arthur Dudley, as holding up well.

Paul named George Strickland, third base coach and former Indian shortstop, to handle the club until further notice.

It was not known how long Tebbetts will be sidelined or whether he will be able to resume his duties this season, which opens April 14.

Canadian STUDEBAKER wins "Car of the Year Award"

Track and Traffic Magazine selected Studebaker as Golden Wheel "Car of the Year" award-winner for superior workmanship, safety through design and all-round automotive excellence.

First of all, the new Studebaker is one of those rare cars free from new car "bugs". The Studebaker engineers in Hamilton, concentrate on improving this quality car, instead of making needless major design changes. You get a car with no annoying problems.

Take a test-drive and discover Studebaker's disc-type brakes—fast, sure, fade-free stoppers they are. The dash is fully padded and fitted with aircraft-type instruments and recessed controls.

A steel frame is disguised by the handsome Studebaker body . . . a steel roll-bar is built into the roof for maximum toughness. You may never need it. But Studebaker doesn't take chances with your safety.

Studebaker could stand on its safety features alone. But it also happens to be just about the most comfortable car you'll ever ride in. Seats are chair high and adjustable, with fully reclining backs.

Buy a Studebaker now and it will be just as exciting, just as up-to-date next year. And the year after.

But though "unradical", Studebaker is never tame.

Studebaker is the rugged, powerful car that shattered dozens of world speed records this year, Studebaker is the car that has been a consistent winner in the Shell 4000 rally, the car that drove off with the Track and Traffic Golden Wheel "Car of the Year" award for automotive excellence.

UBC's Attitude Shocking

VANCOUVER (CP) — The attitude of the University of British Columbia towards athletics is shocking says Herb Capozzi, manager of the British Columbia Lions football club and himself a UBC graduate.

He told a meeting of public school administrators and principals Thursday:

"In B.C. our progress in athletics is far too slow, particularly at the university level. I played for several UBC teams while I was there but I have always been shocked at the approach that was taken and is taken at the present time toward athletics."

He did not elaborate on the "approach" to which he referred.

As fas as he knew, Capozzi said, UBC did not hold a single provincial, regional or inter-university championship. If UBC's math department was excellent, this would reach down to the high schools and similarly with other subjects and it could be true of sports as well.

He told the principals of efforts of the Western Canadian Football Conference champion Lions to promote football among youngsters.

Te club spent $300,00 a year supporting minor league football, including $100,000 for high school football.

"Eight years ago there were less than 1,000 boys playing football," he said. "This year there are 5,000."

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Child's Plight Brings Confession

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four youthful burglars confessed to stealing $3,000 Thursday after hearing that the money they had taken represented years of secret saving by a woman for her deaf and dumb grandchild.

The burglars admitted taking allowance so she could mother's home when police were questioning them about another crime.

The four confessed when they heard how Mrs. Carl Pudlas had scrimped and saved money out of her housekeeping allowance so she could help her four-year-old granddaughter, Cathie.

Three youths have been handed over to juvenile authorities and the fourth will appear in magistrate's court.

Mrs. Pudlas said she had returned from church to find the suitcase containing her savings had gone, and it was only after the theft that her husband learned how she had been quietly saving money for her granddaughter over the years.

"She is such a happy lively little girl," Mrs. Pudlas said.

"The doctors say they can't operate on her just yet, but maybe in about 10 years time they will be able to. If it is possible, I want to have the money ready for her."

Cathie's mother, Mrs. A. G. Pudlas, said: "we knew nothing about grandmother saving all this money. It was very nice of her."

Hospital Absolved In Death

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver General Hospital attendants were absolved Thursday of any blame in the death of Mrs. Dorothy Allen six days after she underwent delicate brain surgery.

A coroner's jury found she died of natural causes from a massive cerebral infection which doctors said was caused by failure of blood to get to one side of the brain. The operation was performed to repair a weak and hemmorhaging blood vessel.

The inquest was ordered after the woman's husband, Peter Allen, complained about treatment he said his wife received from two nurses' aides. Allen said he witnessed a struggle between the aides and his wife, who screamed: "My God, you are killing me."

His wife died two days later. The nurses' aides denied there had been a struggle or that Mrs. Allen had cried out.

Thousands Cheer 2,000-Member Band and Choir at Memorial Arena

* * *

Music, Music Everywhere

By TED GASKELL

Two thousand Victoria school students in gaily-colored uniforms gathered in Memorial Arena last night to form one giant massed band and choir.

Seldom has the arena been so gay with color or so lively with music.

The bandsmen in uniforms of blue and gold, purple and white and other vivid combinations, marched in step and in harmony to the centre of the arena, halted with military precision, were dismissed and marched smartly to their appointed places to take their seats.

The students presented the Host Night concert for the B.C. Music Educators Association Spring conference which opened Wednesday.

Tonight, the All-Province Night concert will be presented at Memorial Arena by 350 selected students from all parts of the province who will combine their talents after three days of rehearsing choral, band and orchestral music.

But after the 2,000 participating students there last night, the arena will seem empty with only 350 participants.

Last night, the arena floor was filled with musicians and the whole of the three north-end seating sections were filled with young choristers.

The rest of the arena accommodation was filled to capacity with an audience of enthusiastic parents.

Band followed band; applause followed applause until every seat on the arena floor was filled with a keen-eyed youngster, instrument close at hand, ready for the spectacular evening that was to follow.

Introductory speeches by schools superintendent John Gough and commentator Walter Cownden were soon over.

A foretaste of the delightful musical evening to follow came when the musicians rose to their feet while four conductors, batons weaving as if joined to one puppeteer's bar, led the bands and orchestra through a stirring "O Canada" and gave it a power and unity not often heard.

The man behind the organization of the concert was Harry Bigsby, conference chairman, and supervisor of music for Greater Victoria schools, who worked with music teachers to stage the concert.

Mr. Bigsby conducted the massed bands in the finale The March of the Four Seasons which was composed by University of Victoria's Dr. Chester Lambertson specially for the Host Night Concert.

First Building Today

Downtown Paint-Up Off to Flying Start

Roderick Clack, special projects and architectural consultant at city hall, said yesterday that work on the first building to be re-painted under the scheme begins this morning.

RECOMMENDED COLORS

The building housing a speciality store at the corner of Fort and Government is getting the recommended color scheme. A shade of yellow is the base color, trim is in charcoal, and the fascia sandstone with lettering in maroon. The awning will be maroon and white stripes.

Six other color schemes for individuals or groups of buildings are now being processed by the special projects office.

MOST ENCOURAGING

"This is a most encouraging start," said Mr. Clack. "Firstly, the job is to be done according to the color-keyed plan for the area, and secondly because it is being done at this time. We expect that others in the vicinity will follow very shortly."

The city recently unveiled its new paint-up plan at a meeting attended by some 150 downtown property owners, tenants and agents. In it are five areas to be covered.

WORK WITH TENANTS

A second organizational meeting was held last week for those in the first area. Committees, composed of one member of the real estate board, one Jaycee and a city hall liaison man working with property owners and tenants in each of the 13 blocks, are already working.

Among proposals being considered by three of these block committees is the possibility of obtaining a single contract price for repainting all buildings at the same time according to the color-keyed plan.

Most of the paint-up work in the first area is expected to be completed by late June.

Boy, 11, Injured

In good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday was Monty Jones, 11, of the Cole Bay Indian Reserve, who suffered a deep head cut in an accident involving a car driven by Philip Nesbitt, 3981 Saanich Road, at Government and Pandora Tuesday.

Stolen Tins Gave Car That Shook-Up Look

A youth who admitted making a do-it-yourself grille for his car from stolen milkshake holders will spend a week in jail while he waits for a pre-sentence report.

Gary Dwight Lamontagne, 18, of 2632 Douglas, admitted stealing three holders, and another 33 were supplied to him by friends over eight months to a year, Saanich magistrate's court was told yesterday. He pleaded guilty to possession of stolen goods under the value of $50 and was remanded to April 9.

Minister of State To Be Guest Here

The Duke of Devonshire, Britain's minister of state for Commonwealth relations will visit Victoria this month, and is expected to be guest of honor at one of the first official social events of the season.

The duke will be in Vancouver for the B.C. International Trade Fair April 13 to 23, and will make a side trip to visit Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes.

The duke is grandson of the ninth duke of Devonshire and was governor-general of Canada from 1916 to 1921. He has travelled through eastern Canada but has not yet visited B.C.

He is expected to be guest-of-honor at the first official garden party of the social season on Government House grounds, and will later attend a dinner party in his honor.

Ferry Lack Delays Motorists

While two B.C. ferries lay idle this week at Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen, Easter holiday motorists from the Island found themselves delayed two hours from the Mainland.

Extra sailings—hourly from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m.—were in effect over the Easter weekend, and are scheduled today, Saturday and Sunday, but Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday they were curtailed, to the annoyance of several Island motorists trying to return home.

Deadly Weed Feared

A weed that looks like a large yellow daisy and has the peculiar name of tansy ragwort is believed to have caused the death of several farm animals in the Nanaimo area.

The weed control committee of the Cedar Farmers' Institute said Wednesday the killer weed is spreading rapidly in the Hub City area, and the committee has moved to set up a weed control area covering the entire area around Nanaimo.

J. E. Garner of Richardson Road, chairman of the weed control committee, said:

"Unless we move now, we might as well give up farming."

The committee has sent letters to the provincial minister of agriculture and to the department of agriculture at the University of British Columbia requesting aid and information on how to handle the threat.

Welsh Group Being Patient

The St. David's Society of Victoria doesn't think Prime Minister Pearson has welshed on them just because he hasn't answered their protest over the exclusion of a daffodil from the new Canadian silver dollar.

The Victoria Welsh group last month joined other societies in Canada in protest over the slight. The new coin includes, Irish, Scottish and English symbols.

"We can wait," St. David's president Victor Williams said yesterday.

"Mr. Pearson right now is pretty busy with other oppressed minorities."

Scouts Commended

By ALAN CAMPBELL

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes, himself a former Boy Scout, yesterday commended the work of Scouts in two recent Island emergencies, and called their work "the acme of all Scouting ideals."

Mr. Pearkes was addressing more than 300 senior Scouts from several B.C. centres after they were presented with Queen's Scout certificates at Government House.

HELPED CLEANUP

The lieutenant-governor said Scouts in the Albernis—ravaged last week by tidal waves and flooding—had "given up" their Easter holidays from school to assist in the massive clean-up work in the district.

Mr. Pearkes said the Scouts at the scene after the disaster used their knowledge of first aid and emergency procedure to great advantage.

AT SCHOOL FIRE

At the recent fire at Lake Cowichan High School, Mr. Pearkes said, Boy Scouts made themselves available to assist firemen almost immediately.

Mainland scouts, from as far away as the Cariboo and Kootenay districts, were brought to Victoria for the ceremony by RCN's HMCS Saskatchewan and HMCS Margaree to join about 60 Greater Victoria boys and several from up-Island points. They had earned the Queen's Scout certificates for general proficiency in all phases of scouting.

The Victoria and Island boys were:

Bonner Statement

Two Victorians On Board Of B.C. Bank

By JACK FRY

Two well-known Victoria business executives were among five men named yesterday as provisional directors of the Bank of British Columbia.

* * *

Wallace

Elworthy

Victoria directors will be John A. Wallace, general manager of Yarrows Limited, and Harold B. Elworthy, chairman of Island Tug and Barge Ltd.

JOIN THREE OTHERS

They will join former Victorian William C. Mearns, executive director of the B.C. Hydro; Einar Gunderson, vice-president of the PGE and B.C. Hydro director, and Frederick H. Dietrich, president of Dietrich-Collins Equipment Limited of Vancouver.

Attorney General Robert Bonner announced capital stock in the bank will be $100,000,000.

QUIT IMPERIAL BANK

Appointment of former B.C. finance minister Gunderson, friend and confidant of Premier Bennett, followed closely on the heels of his resignation this week as a director of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

Speculation that Mr. Gunderson would be a director has run rampant since the Jan. 24 Throne Speech announced a B.C. bank would be established and that the B.C. government would buy up part (25 per cent) of the capital stock.

FARRIS BACKS BILL

Senator J. W. deB. Farris, senior senator for British Columbia, has agreed to sponsor in the Canadian Senate the bill which must be introduced following the filing of petitions, said Mr. Bonner.

Petitions on behalf of the proposed Bank of British Columbia have been filed with the Senate and the House of Commons in Ottawa he said.

The Bill to be introduced also calls for shareholders of the bank to be Canadian residents.

VICTORIA OFFICE

Mr. Wallace said he will push for establishment of a branch office in Victoria as soon as possible.

Mr. Elworthy said he is "highly honored" that he was selected as a director. "But we are only the provisional ones and there will be other directors after things have been confirmed."

QUICK REACTION

Mr. Bonner's surprise announcement brought quick reaction from Opposition leaders.

Robert Strachan, leader of the official NDP Opposition said "the appointment of directors seems to have covered the waterfront and I see that B.C.'s own Mr. Kilroy (Kilroy was here)—Einar M. Gunderson—is here again."

CANADIAN RULE VITAL

"Announcement that Canadian residents will be the shareholders is a very important point in view of the fact that U.S. trust companies are now moving into control position in some of our other federally-chartered banks," said Mr. Strachan.

"The proposed capitalization would indicate the Bank of British Columbia is going to be one of the largest in the country and I wish it speedy going through the banking and commerce committee in Ottawa . . . I hope the bank makes lots of money for the people of B.C."

LIBERAL STAND SAME

Ray Perrault, leader of the five-man Liberal opposition which fought the bank measure all the way through the House, said there is no doubt that "the premier's great and good friend Einar Gunderson obviously will occupy the key post on the board of directors."

Mr. Perrault said "there is nothing in today's announcement which would cause me to regret the stand by our party during the session when we voted against the proposal."

"My view does not change because there is nothing in the announcement to assure the people there will not be political control of the bank," said Mr. Perrault.

Holdup

Suspects Nabbed Quickly

A man who told police he was threatened with a knife held by one of four young men who took his money from him on Clover Point rushed back into town with the information, stopped a policeman and within 10 minutes police rounded up four suspects.

James Farrell, 777 Fort Street, told police he had just finished work and was driving across the causeway on Government Street at Belleville when he stopped and picked up a hitch hiker.

The young man, whom he described as 20 years old, told him he had a bottle of liquor hidden at Clover Point and asked if Mr. Farrell would join him.

Mr. Farrell said when he stopped his car three more young men drove up in another car, got out and walked over. He said one of the men had a knife and a flashlight.

'COME ACROSS'

He said the man stuck the knife in his ribs and said, "Come across."

Mr. Farrell said he handed over $7, all the money on his person, and the thieves fled in their car taking the hitch-hiker with them.

RUSHED BACK

He rushed back to the city and hailed a motorcycle policeman at Yates and Douglas who in turn called in the detectives.

Black Widow Out Early

Black widow spiders seem to be out early this year, a city woman said yesterday.

Mrs. May Welch, 2868 Prior, came across the little black spider while weeding her garden. She chased it with a bottle, captured it and did away with the creature.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. and Mrs. George Chant, residents of Victoria for the past four years, are leaving for Europe April 30 on the P and O liner "Chusan," travelling via the Orient and the Far East, stopping at San Francisco, Honolulu, Hong Kong, et al. From there they proceed to Aden and Bombay, visit Naples and Barcelona, and arrive in London at the end of June. They will be returning to B.C. via Montreal in the early spring of 1965.

Adoption

Racial Tolerance Trend 'Exciting'

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP)—A quiet victory for racial tolerance is being won in adoption agencies across Canada, says an Ottawa social worker.

Betty Stubbins, supervisor of the adoption department of Ottawa Children's Aid, says more and more Canadians are adopting children of a race other than their own.

"Negro and Asian children, who were once considered extremely hard to place, are sought after by an increasing number of prospective adopting parents. This trend is the most exciting development in the adoption field today."

The rewards of bringing up a child of another race are many, says Mrs. Stubbins, but it takes a special kind of parent to meet the challenge.

"We find that people with university backgrounds make the best parents for adopted children of another race. Well-educated men and women with liberal ideas are better equipped to cope with the various problems which may arise in bringing up such children."

PROBLEMS DOUBLED

One of the problems may be the attitude of family and friends toward the child. It is important that both the adopting parents and circle of relatives accept the child fully, Mrs. Stubbins says, otherwise he may develop deep-rooted insecurities.

Couples contemplating adopting a child of another race should remember such a child has a double emotional problem to conquer.

When he knows he is adopted he may worry that his parents do not live him as much as they would their own children. And for the child of another racial background there is the constant realization that he is "different" because of his skin color.

"Mature men and women make better parents for adopted multi-racial children than younger people," says Mrs. Stubbins. "But it is important to project the ages of the parents and the child; to ask the question: "How old will the parents of this child be when he reaches adolescence?"

BEGINS DATING

Adolescence is often the most difficult period for an adopted child of different race for it is then he or she begins dating and may become aware of real or imagined prejudice.

It is also then that parents need to summon up all their patience and understanding to help the young person through the various problems he may encounter, says Mrs. Stubbins, "so it is helpful if they are not too old themselves."

Parents with children of their own, or other adopted children, often make the best parents for children of another race, she says.

Sooke Institutes Commended by Board

"A meeting is only as good as its planning," was the theme chosen by Mrs. E. Robinson, president of South Vancouver Island district board, at the Women's Institute workshop held recently at Royal Oak.

Close to 100 delegates and visitors attended with Institutes from Cedar to Victoria and the Gulf Islands being represented.

A resolution changing the time of the district conference from fall to spring was approved during the brief business session. Workshops will be held in the fall.

* * *

Lake Hill Women's Institute will host a combined workshop and conference in the fall as an interim measure.

Tribute was paid to Sooke and North Sooke Institute for entries in so many WI contests and the honors received.

Mrs. Robinson welcomed Mrs. L. Braden of Dawson Creek, a director of the provincial board, who brought greetings from the Peace River area.

Mrs. H. G. Scott, district board vice-president gave a talk on what to keep in an emergency cupboard. She interspread her talk with stories drawn from her own rich experiences as a registered nurse living on an island. Called on in emergencies of all kinds she keeps a bag packed and "ready to go" for this purpose.

* * *

During lunch hour the members viewed handicrafts including wool rugs, knitted articles, thrift items and animal toys made from rabbit fur. A bake sale was also held with proceeds going towards the national convention fund.

Following lunch discussion groups were held. Mrs. A. Kinnis, guest speaker from the Weaver's Guild, spoke on design in weaving and displayed samples of her work. Miss V. Sallis, district board member, gave a talk on credit.

An attractive display of costume jewelry made from marbles prepared and mounted by Mrs. A. Feather, district board member, was well received.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a competent woman who has been employed by this firm for almost 10 years. Several weeks ago a reorganization took place which left an extremely desirable position open. There was much speculation around the office as to who would get the position. I was considered the all-odds favorite.

Yesterday the announcement was made. The position went to a woman who has been employed here only seven years. Furthermore, everything she known about the business she learned from me. I was given a salary increase (as a pacifier) but it didn't make up for my disappointment.

The reason I was passed over was because I am not of the same religion as the owners. The woman who was promoted over my head belongs to their church. Should I leave, or stay and hope for a break next time?

—IN BUT OUT.

Dear In—But: Often when individuals are passed over for a promotion they tell themselves (and others) that religion was the reason. In some instances it's true, but frequently this alibi is trotted out because it places the onus on the employer.

Unless 90 days produce a change in your attitude toward management and your job, I suggest you leave.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a young man, 19, who doesn't have anyone to turn to so I'm writing to you.

My trouble started last year when I dropped out of school. I went to work in a cafeteria for $1 an hour. I quit because I thought I could make more somewhere else. Now I can't find a job.

I want to go to trade school but by the time I got out I'd be of draft age. Should I enlist and get my service over with, or go to trade school now and let the Army take me when they want me? Maybe jobs will be easier to find when I get out. Thanks—WHERE TO NEXT?

Dear Next: Go into the armed services now, but not with the idea of "getting it over with."

Your first goal should be a high school diploma. You can take a correspondence course while in the service and be a high school graduate when you get out. And while you're in the service you can sign up for special training which will give you a head start when you enter trade school—if that's what you decide on.

The important thing is DON'T WASTE TIME. Equip yourself, through education, to make a living. The demand now and in the future is only for the trained and the skilled. Be among them.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: I'm very much in love with a man who is deeply in love with me. I know we could have a beautiful life together. My family is violently opposed to Ty because he is many years my senior and has been married and divorced four times. I agree his record is not good, but I am the only woman who has ever given him unselfish love and understanding.

Fellows my age are immature and boring. I am willing to face the wrath of my family and the public censure that will surely follow if I marry Ty. I know we can make it. Do you think we have a chance?—L.A. LOVE.

Dear L.A.: You don't want advice, you want approval—and you rattled the wrong cage, Buttercup.

Often I learn more about a situation from the facts omitted than from the facts stated. You avoided telling me your age or his, which leads me to suspect you two are at least a generation apart. You failed to mention whether Ty has children. I'll bet he has a few living souvenirs from at least three out of four of those marriages—some probably older than you. And I'll bet, too, that if you marry this aging Romeo, within two years you will be looking for a lawyer and Ty will be looking for his sixth.

Hand Weavers Display Work

Mrs. G. Singleton, president, urged members of Victoria Hand Weavers' Guild to compete in the Annual Canadian handweaving exhibition being held in Vancouver in June.

Members learned at the regular meeting that Miss F. Daniels will instruct in the use of an eight-harness loom, recently installed in the Guild workroom on Government Street.

An interesting program was presented by three past presidents who discussed their own weaving and showed samples. Mrs. S. Pickles displayed her gaily colored tufted bathmats, hot mats and cushion covers. She also showed several pieces of the world including a Navajo saddle blanket and three skirts from Switzerland, Spain and Majorca.

Mrs. H. Hodson displayed a glamorous white Cavalier scarf she had made from novelty threads and wool and plastic-like yarn she purchased in Venice. She also showed place mats done in very fine thread and using lace and tapestry techniques, and swatches of wollens which have been made into coats.

Mrs. G. Anstey described one of her early projects which used a 40-yard warp of fine cotton. By using weft threads of different colors and texture she had created dresses, upholstery, curtains, bags and skirts, all on the same warp. Mrs. Anstey also displayed a sample of her handwoven white silk material for a wedding gown.

Miss M. Turner discussed latest plans of the exhibition committee.

Two out-of-town weavers, Mrs. J. Graham, and Mrs. J. Jeffery, London, Ont., recently visited Mrs. Anstey and other guild members.

Garden Notes

Inside or Outside?

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

How did you make out with your Colonist free seeds of the new Starfire tomato? I'd be most interested to hear how long it took for the seeds to come up and how the seedlings are coming along, for my own batch really surprised me.

According to the book or rules, tomato seeds are supposed to take from a week to 10 days before the seedlings appear above ground, but mine were through in only four days. Sown on St. Patrick's Day, the first seedling poked its nose through the covering of peat moss March 21.

I must admit I cheated a little bit, because I had the plastic-covered flower pot sitting under my desk lamp and only a few inches from the electric light bulb, and evidently the warmth and high humidity under the plastic wrap brought the seeds up in a hurry. I have a fine batch of sturdy young plants sitting in my coldframe now, and I will be sowing another potful of Starfire seeds this weekend.

* * *

This desk lamp stunt worked so surprisingly well with the tomato seeds, I am starting some of the Colonist's free Tricolor chrysanthemum seeds in the same way, although this is one flower that doesn't really need an indoor start—they can be sown directly in the outdoor garden. Today I propose to review the alternative methods —the indoor and outdoor start.

Except for certain low-lying frost pockets always plagued by late spring frosts, it should be safe to sow your Colonist chrysanthemum seeds outdoors by the end of this month. The only real advantage of starting them indoors is to bring them along a little faster, to get earlier blooms, and to give the tiny seedlings some protection from high winds and battering rain.

* * *

To run over again quickly my favorite method of starting seeds indoors, use a clay flowerpot—any reasonable size will do — and scrub it thoroughly in hot soapy water. Put an inch of gravel or small pebbles in the bottom for drainage. Cover these with a wad of four or five thicknesses of absorbent paper — paper towel, paper handkerchief, or toilet paper — then put in your soil. This could be purchased stuff or a mixture of sifted garden soil, peat moss and coarse sand.

Fill to within half an inch of the pot rim and make the soil firm and level with the fingers—press down hard. Water with boiling water, right out of the kettle, applied very slowly, giving enough to saturate all the soil in the pot. Then sow your mum seeds, spacing them out on the muddy surface an inch apart each way. Cover with a quarter-inch layer of peat moss, then stretch a square of plastic film over the top of the pot, holding it in place with an elastic band.

* * *

Place the pot in a warm place to bring the seeds up in a hurry — I have been unusually successful with my desk lamp stunt — and remove the plastic cover as soon as the first of the seedlings appears. Transfer the pot to a sunny window of a very cool room, or to a sunporch or coldframe and grow on steadily. The little plants may be transplanted to their flowering position early next month.

Tomorrow I'll be giving a few pointers on the handling of the Tricolor chrysanthemum seeds in a simple outdoor sowing. In the meantime, if you haven't asked for your free seeds yet, better get that letter away this weekend. Or use the coupon at the foot of this column, and don't forget the stamped and self-addressed envelope.

French Medal-Mad Cynics

We have just read that Gen. de Gaulle has decided to cut down on French decorations. According to estimates, one out of every 20 Frenchmen has some sort of a decoration from the government, or 2,400,000 French citizens out of a population of 48,000,000 have been kissed on both cheeks by some French official.

The General touched on a subject dear to every Frenchman's heart. There is no country in the world as decoration conscious as France.

It starts in grammar school, when instead of grades children are given medals to wear on their dresses and shirts.

One of our daughters who was only six at the time had been decorated four times before she was promoted to the second grade. Another daughter came home one day wearing a medal that looked like the Croix de Guerre.

* * *

So, starting in grammar school, the French are made medal-mad and spend the rest of their lives seeking honors. There are many medal stores in Paris which sell decorations, either for your buttonhole or to wear around your neck.

We first became aware of how medal-conscious the French were when we decided to purchase a medal in Paris for some friends of ours.

It seems this couple, Les and Cleo Gruber, who own a restaurant, had visited every one of the three-star Guide Michelin restaurants in France. This is quite a feat, as these 11 gastronomic palaces are located in all parts of the country.

To award them for their diligence, we formed the Order of the Three-Star Liver and decided to present them with a medal worthy of their bravery.

* * *

So we went to a medal store in Paris and, after looking over all the designs and ribbons, we chose a medaille d'agriculture, presumably given to those who had worked hard in the fields.

"I'll take that one," we told the lady.

"Excuse me, monsieur," she said. "Did you earn this medal?"

"No," we admitted, "it's a kind of joke."

The woman became infuriated. "These medals are not jokes. Men have worked hard to earn them. They have sweated and broken their backs for this medal. Some have even died for it. I will not sell you this medal."

* * *

We realized we had made a mistake and we apologized profusely.

"Forgive me, you are right. I wasn't thinking clearly. These medals are important to those who have earned them and I would not want to do anything to dishonor them. I am terribly sorry."

Having been properly rebuked by the woman, we started for the door. But before we could open it, the lady said, "I cannot sell you that medal, monsieur, but I can let you have this Victoria Cross very cheaply."

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

'Cap' Admits Romance

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—"It's true, I'm having a romance with William Holden," replied Capucine when I asked, "What's all this with Bill?" "But," continued the tall, attractive French actress, "I will not lift one finger to make him get a divorce. That is not my business. And if his wife (the former Brenda Marshall) wants to fight to get him back, that is her business. But their marriage has been on the rocks for years, and everyone knows it. We are just good friends."

They were more than good friends when they recently co-starred in The Seventh Dawn in Malaya. Bill had already separated from his wife. And there was no doubt of their romance when producer Sam Spiegel lent them his yacht and they sailed to the Bahamas, all the way across the Atlantic from Spain.

They met again in New York when Bill went there recently where Capucine was publicizing their recent picture with Peter Sellers, The Pink Panther. Bill then took off for his home in Lausanne, not the big house he shared with his wife in Lausanne. Cap will join him in Lausanne this month.

* * *

There is talk of Anne Bancroft and Glenn Ford for the movie version of A Thousand Clowns. But I don't hear a whisper that Sandy Dennis will repeat her stage role in the picture. Perhaps because in A Thousand Clowns she was a supporting player. Since her triumph in Any Wednesday Sandy is a top star . . . and all the best roles are going to Peter O'Toole. I understand he gets Dylan as a film. What's wrong with Sir Alec Guinness, who is merely great in the Broadway production.

* * *

Sean Flynn, the son of the late Errol, is taking speech and drama lessons, and this can only help him, after those reviews for his Son of Captain Blood. His mother, Lili Damita, has a good thing going for her in the Beverly Hills real estate she bought with the $300,000 settlement she received when she divorced Errol. And how long ago that seems.

* * *

Alfred Hitchcock invited me into his private projection room to watch a scene with "Tippi" Hedren and Sean Connery in Marnie. "I want you to see how her range has improved," said Hitch. The scene was very difficult, a bad dream with frightening murder echoes of her childhood. "Tippi" certainly could not have performed as well as she did, in her first movie, The Birds.

Don't Overdo It

Warns
CHARLES McDOWELL

In an era when a good many men are concerned about their "images," there is a hazard that is not receiving sufficient attention. We shall call it, for want of a more ponderous expression, the Hazard of Overblowing the Image Through Uncontrolled Proliferation of Symbols.

What happens to an image when it is recklessly overblown is that it bursts, and nobody wants that to happen to his image. Patience and caution are the watchwords.

There are all sorts of images. Each has its own symbols and its own breaking point, or overloading factor. For purposes of illustration, take a young to middle-aged man who wears heavy horn-rimmed spectacles and a vest and is never without his pipe.

* * *

This man probably would be safe in adding certain other symbols to his image. He could add, for instance, an attache case in which to carry important things to and from the office. If he carries his lunch in it, he is pushing his luck.

He might add shiny cuff links or a modified Alpine-type hat, although we would not advise adding the cuff links, the modified Alpine-type hat and attache case all in a short time span.

But now add one more symbol—an imported car. The minute this fellow begins to drive one of these, he is exerting tremendous interior pressure on his image. Depending on whom he is trying to impress, he may be exerting more pressure than his image can stand.

It is possible, you may say, that he is not trying to impress anyone. Maybe not, maybe not. The point is that he runs the risk of encouraging people to think he is trying to impress them, and the people most likely to jump to his conclusion are those who have a rather high opinion of their own images. This is a tricky world we live in.

* * *

The principle of compensation might be useful in the touchy situation that results from superimposing an imported car on all those other symbols. That is, during the first two or three weeks in the car, our man could leave his pipe at home.

Slain Trio

Judge Seeks New Look At Pictures

QUEBEC CITY (UPI) — An even closer look will be taken at two blown-up photographs snapped by one of three American bear hunters shortly before the trio was ambushed and slain in the Gaspe bush 11 years ago.

Judge Roger Brossard, heading the one-man royal commission inquiry into the 1956 execution of Wilbert Coffin for the slaying of the trio, yesterday ordered the negatives to be sent to Kodak laboratories in the United States.

The sudden move came after Montreal author - publisher Jacques Hebert, whose book set off the inquiry, said experts from Kodak had better facilities than those at the provincial police.

Hebert suggested that writing on a note held by Frederick Claar, 19, of Altoona, Pa., one of the slain hunters, could be brought out by these experts.

Hebert said in his book that one of the hunters had written a note which would have cleared Coffin. He charged the note was withheld by the police who framed the Gaspe prospector for the death of the three hunters.

Another photograph showed a man identified as Vincent Patterson holding an object in his hand which could be a revolver or a belt buckle.

Both photos were enlarged 40 times by the provincial police last night at the request of Judge Brossard.

The two photographs were part of a group of four developed by the provincial police in 1953 after they were found in a camera belonging to Claar.

Ship Swamps Burns 70 Perish

SUVA, Fiji (Reuters) — More than 70 persons died when a pleasure schooner swamped and caught fire near this British South Pacific island group Sunday night, the island administration announced Thursday.

The announcement came several hours after two survivors from the 33-ton schooner Kadavulevu landed here after spending nearly four days on an improvised raft.

First survivor to be found was a woman discovered exhausted on the island of Nasoata Wednesday night. She was the only survivor among a group of six persons who had drifted from the wreck.

The survivors who landed Thursday were a middle-aged woman and a 10-year-old boy. The woman suffered severe exhaustion but the boy seemed in good condition.

As the search for more survivors continued, small craft arrived here with pieces of the schooner's wreckage, including deckhouse sections charred by fire.

The fire broke out after the schooner swamped in heavy seas.

Youths Fined For Beer

Three youths were fined $20 each in city court when they pleaded guilty to unrelated offences of being minors in possession of alcohol.

Allan R. C. Pye, 2630 Victor, had 14 bottles of beer in his car when checked by police at Clover Point March 13.

'Fried Children' On School Menu

STERLING, Colo. (AP) — A tired teacher or a typographical error is blamed for Thursday's school lunch menu printed in the Sterling Journal-Advocate:

"Fried children and gravy, vegetables, desert."

Wife's Death Accident Or Suicide

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — Jacqueline Cooke drowned in Prince Rupert harbor "by accident with possible suicide," a coroner's jury found Wednesday.

Mrs. Cooke's husband Avery reported to police at 9 p.m. March 11 that she had fallen off a dock.

Cook told the inquest his wife became "frantic" when he told her a social worker had advised against the pair's reconciliation after a year's separation.

He and his wife had consumed nearly 22 ounces of vodka before she drowned.

He said he could not recall what followed after his wife broke away from him after struggling near the dock's edge. He heard his wife call out, "and that was all."

Blaze Brings Friends

When Harry Jones, of the North Saanich Indian Reserve, lost all his belongings in a fire last month, he didn't realize how many friends the fire would bring him.

Mr. Jones, who derives most of his income from felling and cutting trees, lost his chain saw in the blaze.

Since then the saw has been replaced and clothes and household furnishings have been given him and his two sons, Harry Jr., 14, and Hayward, 15.

Now, with a new lease on life, Mr. Jones says: "I'm so grateful to all the people for what they have done for me and my family."

The money drive which realized about $528, was led by Mrs. Edith Cross, 847 Towner Park, and the clothing and furniture drive was led by Mrs. Patricia Smith and Mrs. Edna Passmore, of the ladies' auxiliary, Victoria Temple.

Even without Wampo, Lhungnak and Trashi Phub,

There are towns in Tibet where no V.O. is sold. But these are greatly outnumbered by the cities, towns and hamlets in 130 countries where V.O. is sold. In fact, more Seagram's V.O. is sold throughout the world than any other whisky exported from any country.

Why? We think it must be the quality of the product. The mellow flavour of Seagram's V.O. combines brilliance of taste with lightness of tone—and this balance of good taste never varies. As a result, V.O. is enjoyed by a world of people from Karachi to Killaloe. So remember . . . V.O., V.O., wherever you are!

TV TALK

By JIM TAYLOR

There is no middle ground with Ed Sullivan viewers. They either love him or detest him, and many of his show's millions of viewers watch in spite of him. But you have to admire the man's business sense.

CBS wanted Sullivan to expand to 90 minutes. Sullivan thought it over and said no. Was the boss unhappy? It doesn't appear that way.

When Sullivan signed his new contract with CBS recently he reportedly got a lifetime deal. The contract assures him that his Sunday show will continue for as long as he lives or as long as he wants to continue producing it under his Sullivan Incorporated banner. The only man who can pull out is Sullivan, who quits whenever he feels like it.

No mention was made of money. When you get in Sullivan's bracket, it isn't considered nice. But he won't be missing many meals.

"Johnny Carson and Ed McMahon will keep your feet warm!"

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♢	2 ♣	Dbl.	All Pass

Opening lead: Heart ten

One of the most revealing sources of information for declarer is the opening lead. It can light up the layout of the other suits, as well as the suit led. When a defender fails to open the expected suit, declarer should be suspicious.

South was generally averse to making a simple overcall on a potentially strong hand. He preferred to inaugurate such hands with a takeout double whenever possible, but with this one-suited hand he bid two clubs. West did not expect to amass great wealth when he doubled, but his hand contained three probable defensive tricks, and he knew that a sound opening bid will generally produce at least the same number.

Declarer was not altogether displeased by the turn of events, but he was somewhat puzzled when West led the heart ten instead of a diamond. The heart opening put declarer on the table for the first and last time, and he had to decide whether to try for a diamond or a spade trick. Many players would have led the suit bid by East, but South was wisely suspicious. He deduced that West had not led a diamond because he held the ace. South therefore finessed the spade queen instead of leading up to the diamond king, and he was rewarded when he won the trick. He still went down one, but if he had been less wary at trick two, he would have finished up having to lead away from the spade queen and would have gone down an extra trick.

30-Day Test Ends

Major Breakthrough For Life in Space?

SEATTLE (AP)—Officials say 30 days of confinement in a sealed chamber for five men led to a "major breakthrough" in research into whether U.S. astronauts can live indefinitely in space.

After the men emerged from their cramped quarters Wednesday, Dr. Eugene B. Konecci said "we are on the threshold of being able to sustain men in outer space for as long as we need."

Konecci is director of biotechnology and human research for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

PRINCIPLES PROVED

"The basic principles and techniques of life - support systems have been proved workable and sound," he said. "Now we refine and advance them. We are already looking and preparing for beyond."

NASA, which contracted with the Boeing company for the test, called it "a major breakthrough."

FOOD COMES LAST

When the men emerged from their quarters, first thoughts were for wives, families and food, in that order.

Since March 2 they had lived, slept and eaten under space conditions, except for weightlessness, in a windowless, L-shaped chamber.

The air they breathed was constantly restored by a chemical. Water they drank and washed with was reclaimed from body wastes, sink drainings and condensations. Food was freeze-dried and restored by adding water.

WANTS STEAK

Lt. - Cmdr. Donald E. Robinson, 33, the crew's medical officer from Pensacola, Fla., said the first thing he wanted was "a steak three inches thick with a green salad." The rest nodded.

Roger Barnicki, 28, of Edwards Air Force Base, headed the crew which also included three Boeing men, Ralvan Welker, 36, of Woodinville, Wash., and Warren Swenson, 26, and Paul Trush, 26, both of Seattle.

30 DAYS ENOUGH

Barnicki said all systems functioned without trouble except for expected minor replacements. There were no personality conflicts, and the confinement and isolation were not too hard to bear, but 30 days was enough.

Robinson said the health of the men remained good.

No smoking was allowed, which was hard on the three smokers, Robinson, Barnicki and Welker. They have no intention of quitting.

The next test will be one of 90 days to six months at the General Dynamics plant in San Diego, Calif.

Boy Retarded

Australian to Die For Killing Son

PERTH (Reuters) — A 49-year-old university lecturer today was sentenced to death in this West Australia city for the mercy killing of his mentally-retarded four-year-old son.

A criminal court jury found Dr. Maurice Bernard Benn guilty of murder after the judge warned them not to let emotion interfere with justice.

BETTER TO DIE

Benn had told the court he shot his son, Bernard Wolfgang, Feb. 8 because he thought it was better he should die than spend his childhood in institutions and his adult life in a mental hospital.

The Scottish - born lecturer in German at the University of Western Australia said he feared the boy's condition would cause a mental breakdown, or even suicide, in his wife.

Defence counsel K. W. Hatfield, QC, told the court Benn was not an advocate of euthanasia (mercy killing), but the starkness of his realization about the boy had pulled the trigger.

He said a doctor at Perth hospital had told Benn that his son was virtually a vegetable.

Hatfield asked the jury:

"Have you ever had a child sick for 24 or 36 hours? . . . At the end of it you are just about tormented . . . think of the anguish of the Benns, hour by hour, for nearly two years."

Benn had told the court it seemed to him "I had no choice" about killing the boy.

He said once he got the idea of killing him, he could not combat it.

He pleaded not guilty.

He said his son had seemed normal for the first year of his life, but by 1962, at the age of three, an examination showed he was mentally backward.

NEVER NORMAL

Last year, he said, the boy began poking his tongue out all the time. "I knew he would never be normal, knew he was rapidly becoming uncontrollable."

Benn said he thought killing his son "was a way of saving them both. . . . I thought it would save the boy from a terrible kind of life, that it would save my wife."

Phosphates For Teeth

EDMONTON (CP) — Researchers at the University of Alberta have discovered that phosphates in food can be a great aid in tooth protection. Dr. Jules Tuba, professor of biochemistry in the faculty of dentistry, has been working with other scientists for more than two years conducting experiments.

"THE ADDRESS OF AUTOMOTIVE LEADERSHIP IN VICTORIA"

200 Bed Down

Around 200 visiting students from all over the province bedded down last night at Central Junior High School, in bunks lent by the army. Students are here to study and participate in the B.C. Music Educators Conference, yesterday and today. Here, group of girls test temporary accommodation before taking supper. —(Bud Kinsman)

Fish and Game Clubs Seeking Special Parks Legislation

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fish and game clubs are expected to ask the provincial government for special legislation protecting British Columbia parks.

This is the recommendation of directors that will go before the April 30-May 2 meeting of the B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs in Nanaimo.

Countering government hints of future mining and forestry projects for provincial parks, the federation directors want parks declared "inviolate."

The legislation would forbid harvesting of resources. Existing holders of Crown resource claims would be put under strict control.

The directors have suggested definition of various kinds of parks as follows:

- High-use areas for such activities as skiing, boat landing and dock, swimming.
- Outdoor-enjoyment areas for such activities as boating, picnicking, nature walks and camping.
- Natural areas with no development for simple camping, hiking, hunting or fishing.
- Completely primitive areas undisturbed by roads.
- Historical sites.

American 'Trespass'

U.K. Will Fight

LONDON (UPI) — Britain Thursday accused the United States of a "serious trespass" on its jurisdiction in trying to control international shipping.

A statement issued by the ministry of transport and authorized by Prime Minister Douglas-Home said Britain will take "any action necessary" to preserve its rights.

The crisis erupted when the U.S. maritime commission dedecided that shipping conferences should scrap existing contracts with exporters and replace them with American-drawn contracts or face possible fines of $1,000 a day.

CARGO RATES

The first conference to come under fire was Britain's North Atlantic westbound freight association. But many others also were affected.

The committee of European shipowners met to consider the situation.

The body represents more than half the world's merchant tonnage. Its membership includes the 10 main European maritime powers. Japan is an associate.

The statement said: "The council of the committee of European shipowners considered the situation this morning and unanimously agreed that the position created by this latest action of the commission was quite intolerable."

Village Wiped Out

Hot Springs Cove has always been a fishing village, and when the first tidal surges were felt its occupants obeyed a traditional command:

Out they went in their fishing boats, and there watched the huge waves strike home.

* * *

When they returned, only two of 18 houses were still standing. The new Roman Catholic Church of the Immaculate Conception was tilting 50 feet from its base. A new power plant was destroyed.

The tiny community suffered proportionately more damage than any other from the waves generated by Saturday's Alaska earthquake. Its residents have only the clothes on their backs—and their boats.

To make sure the plight of the villagers is known and not ignored, Rev. William Robinson has gone to Vancouver to speak out.

Mr. Robinson is the native minister of the United Church at Ahousaht, another Indian community on this coast where Hot Spring Cove residents have been given shelter.

* * *

It was a shambles and everyone had to be evacuated. Eleven homes had been washed off their foundations and five were swept out to sea.

"They're going to rebuild their villages and I'm going to Vancouver to make sure that Hot Springs Cove is not forgotten."

Mr. Robinson said the village needs public assistance as well as Port Alberni and Alberni, twin cities who suffered $5,000,000 damage from the waves.

So far, Hot Springs Cove has been the concern of other bands on the island, and of the Indian affairs department.

Jack Homan, department supervisor in this area, said Thursday:

"We are hoping to patch up the village so that they can all return within a month in time for the fishing season . . . It is not a suitable site for a settlement because even at high tide it gets rather wet."

Meanwhile women of the Opitsate Reserve near here are collecting articles for their wave-stricken fellows, and in Tofino, Mrs. Barney Williams and Mrs. S. McConnell Bird are starting a drive for used articles of any kind for the Indians.

* * *

Police Fight Fire Duties In Esquimalt

Esquimalt's police force will go to a conciliation board in an effort to shed its fire-fighting duties.

Also before the board, which must be held by April 15, is a police force request for time and a half for overtime.

At present force members double as firemen when there is a blaze in the municipality and are paid no overtime but given time off for any overtime worked when the schedule permits.

Police have already asked for and been given parity wages with the Victoria force, which amounts to $1 a month. Constables now receive $487.

NOTICE REQUIRED?

Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele said last night that, as he understood the present agreement, two months' notice was required before any action could be taken on the matter of the fire department and he believed the agreement called for any changes to be made at the end of the year.

A meeting between union representatives Lorne Shandley of the Victoria city police, Eric Simmons of the Victoria fire department, lawyer Kenneth Murphy, representing the municipality, and the conciliation officer is expected Monday.

Hitch-Hiker Reaches Yellowknife

Victoria's teen-age female hitch-hiker reached Yellowknife in the Yukon Territories safely and is probably on her way home, it was learned last night.

Lilian Lee Johansen, 17, wrote letters from Yellowknife to her mother, Mrs. Esther Johansen, 831 Ellery Street, and Mrs. Lois Matthew, 1545 Burnside West, for whom she works as a baby sitter.

The girl had "a real nice trip up," "the people here sure are nice" and "there's plenty to see up here," she wrote.

Verdict: Guilty Of Rape

Ward was accused of raping a 27-year-old Nanaimo woman, mother of three children, in the apartment of a neighbor, Mrs. Shirley Douglas, on the night of Sept. 24, 1963. He was remanded to 10:30 a.m. today for sentence.

OUT FIVE HOURS

The jury was in and out from 4:30 p.m. Thursday until returning the verdict at 10:10 p.m.

Mrs. Douglas had testified that when she entered the apartment the woman was sitting on the chesterfield feeding her three-week-old baby, and Ward was sitting beside her.

'DON'T LEAVE ME'

Mrs. Douglas said she and Ward talked about a cigarette lighter he had lost, and she returned it to him. Then the woman said:

"Don't leave me. I've been violated."

Mrs. Douglas said she didn't know what that meant, and the woman told her. Mrs. Douglas then turned to Ward and asked him what he had done.

Mrs. Douglas said that when she left to get help the woman started to cry.

Mr. Justice J. [illegible] A. Hutcheson presided at the trial.

No Governments

Townsites Need Aid

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell will be chief cook and bottle washer for a few more days in his new office at Room 120 of the Douglas Building.

Government officials are still playing musical chairs in the Douglas Building to make room for the Socred member from Comox who recently was handed the municipal affairs portfolio.

When a reporter walked in yesterday for the first official interview with the new minister, Mr. Campbell was busy answering the phone, opening doors for visitors and running a one-man show.

He has been given a secretary but it will be a few more days before an office is prepared for her.

Mr. Campbell said he is concerned about the lack of civic government for small communities which are "literally being carved out of the wilderness" on northern Vancouver Island.

He hopes to find some "intermediate" type of government which can fill the gap until these isolated communities are large enough to decide what kind of municipal government they want.

"I intend to have the department co-operate in a more extensive way with industrial users in forested areas who desire to set up public communities, particularly within forest management licence or lease areas," he said.

"I will ask the department to study the type of government that might be brought to these areas (such as Rayonier's public townsites at Port McNeill and Rumble Beach) . . . prior to their becoming completely public communities."

Port Alice, an area which is also in Mr. Campbell's riding, "develops a dependence upon the company which sets them apart from the rest of the province, and I think a one-industry dominated community is lacking in balance.

"It is difficult for the influence of an individual to assert itself in a one-company dominated area — it has a tendency to make employment unflexible, free movement of labor does not develop and in many instances there are no competitive services," the minister said.

PROBABLY EXTENDED

"The initial experience with the new townsite at Port McNeill and the one being developed at Rumble Beach is satisfactory enough to prove up the feasibility of their developments and will probably be extended to other areas on Vancouver Island.

Kelsey Bay and Port Hardy, with populations of up to 1,500, "are both one-industry dominated and have no civic government. They may also need an intermediate phase of government — a type of machinery for effectively transferring them to more widespread, effective administration," Mr. Campbell said.

Union Hoping Talks Resume

Hope that labor-management negotiations in the shipyards strike will resume next week was expressed last night by Victoria labor leader James McConachy.

Following a meeting yesterday of officials of Victoria unions involved in the strike, Mr. McConachy, business agent for the boilermakers' union in Victoria and president of the Victoria Metal Trades Council, said the unions are willing to meet with management at any time.

Mr. McConachy said he was trying to arrange a meeting of Victoria union spokesmen for today to define a union course of action more specifically.

More than 2,000 employees of Victoria Machinery Depot and Yarrows in Victoria and of Burrard Dry Dock in North Vancouver have been on strike since the first week in February.

Four or five representatives of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce will leave Victoria Sunday to try to persuade San Francisco-area tourists to visit Victoria.

The group has prepared a presentation of 80 color slides which will be shown to various groups during the five-day trip.

Among those on the tour will be chamber manager John Coppinger, Pat Frumento of Black Ball Transport, William Clark of the Dominion Hotel and Robert Fraser of the B.C. Ferry Authority.

Foot of Steps

Paddlewheeler Refused Site

The city's harbor committee turned down a request for permission to dock paddlewheel sightseeing craft at the foot of the Causeway steps below the tourist bureau.

It recommended instead that city council offer Yukon Queen Tours Ltd. space on the south side of existing city floats nearby.

It will be up to the company to decide whether it wishes to construct a float for its own use if council goes along with the committee's proposal.

Capt. George Veres, representing the tour company, said "neither the harbormaster nor ourselves" regards the presence of the 45-foot sternwheelers in the vicinity of the Black Ball ferry wharf as a significant additional hazard to navigation.

'FAILS TO SEE'

The spokesman added that he "failed to see the reason for objections" raised Tuesday by the public works committee to provision of access to the dock site by way of the landscaped area alongside the tourist bureau.

"We are not stressing the requirement for a ticket booth (on the Causeway)," said Capt. Veres. "And we could operate with a blacktopped pathway alongside one wall of the building."

The original application was for permission to erect the booth and blacktop the entire small area now landscaped.

BENEFIT OF ALL

City manager Dennis Young said the tourist bureau itself and landscaping were provided for the benefit of the entire tourist industry and nothing which detracted from it could be done for the benefit of a single company.

Two sightseeing crafts are now under construction in McKay Cormack Ltd. shipyards and are expected to go into service for the first time this summer.

Older to Wiser's means aged in wood, not merely the date stamp on the bottle. It means "married in wood" which is a process of returning the spirits to wood after final blending—for a further period of quiet aging. It means "lighter", smoother flavour acquired naturally – through patient aging. For the best whiskies, drink one that's older and Wiser's

EXPERTS RULE ON DISASTER

As disaster aid pledged to the Alberni Valley passed the $500,000 mark, the provincial cabinet yesterday hired professional insurance adjusters to appraise the Alaska earthquake's tidal wave damage to Vancouver Island.

Deputy provincial secretary Laurie Wallace said the cabinet hired the Canadian Independent Adjusters' Conference under E. C. Earle of Vancouver and that an advance team of 15 adjusters is expected to arrive at Port Alberni today.

(See also Pages 19 and 28)

The survey will include a dozen more remote communities up-Island which suffered from the tidal waves and will take a week to 10 days.

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black said the insurance investigators will concentrate on rehabilitation problems and "will assess the situation and give us as quick a reply as possible."

Meanwhile, Victoria's Acting-Mayor Arthur Dowell established a fund at city hall for public contributions to victims of the Alberni area tidal wave disaster.

City council has already announced it will contribute fi-

Tax Reshuffle May Follow Parley Review

QUEBEC (CP) — The federal-provincial conference agreed Thursday to a searching "review in depth" into the tax resources and financial responsibilities of federal and provincial governments.

Prime Minister Pearson said it might lead to a reshuffling of taxing and spending fields between the two levels of government and "conceivably" to constitutional amendments.

There was agreement in principle on such a study, but not final agreement to the federal proposal that a 13-man ministerial "tax structure committee" do the job. One source said Quebec hesitated to agree firmly that such a committee is the best body to do the job.

WORK OUT FORMULA

A communique issued at the close of the three-day conference also announced agreement on immediate discussions to work out a formula for provinces wanting to "contract out" of existing shared-cost programs—taking over their whole cost burden in return for what Mr. Pearson said would be "adequate" compensation.

The prime minister said Quebec is the only province to have declared its desire to contract out of such programs now

Quebec Fights Aid Schemes

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage said Thursday Quebec would challenge in the courts the constitutionality of two federal government measures to aid education if they are applied in Quebec.

He made the statement in a formal communique issued at the end of the federal-provincial conference.

The two measures are an extension of family allowances to 16- and 17-year-old students, designed to keep older children in school, and proposed interest-free loans to university students.

PROVINCIAL MATTER

Quebec contends that since both measures are aimed at aiding education they are unconstitutional because education is strictly a provincial matter.

Mr. Lesage reiterated Quebec wants the equivalent of the money Ottawa would spend in Quebec on the two plans, in the form of increased taxation resources.

Mr. Lesage said his government is "not satisfied" with its current share of tax resources. The question would be discussed with "unprecedented gravity" in his budget speech, expected about mid-April.

The Quebec premier, visibly weary after three days of talks, said education is "incontestably within our jurisdiction." The only solution to the issue would be for Ottawa to provide Quebec with fiscal compensation if it goes ahead with its plans.

SAVE COMPLICATIONS

"This is a solution which could be applied immediately and save us from complications, and even serious disputes, which would be the inevitable result of a disagreement.

"Indeed we would necessarily have to have recourse to the courts to obtain respect for the constitutional rights of the province if our observations are not followed."

Wasylenchuk Case

'Lost' Witnesses Anger Judge

SEATTLE (AP) — Two missing witnesses in the murder-bank robbery trial of Canadian John Wasylenchuk were sought Thursday and one was criticized from the bench as their unexplained absence delayed the case from going to the jury.

Efforts were made to locate Fred L. Mitchell, Seattle police detective, and retired Sgt. Edward Murton of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, of Tadanac, B.C., near Trail.

Federal Judge William Lindberg estimated at adjournment the jury might get the case by noon Friday. He had earlier thought deliberations could begin by late Thursday.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND

Commenting from the bench that the Seattle officer had failed to be present when subpoenaed to do so, Judge Lindberg said:

Mitchell had earlier testified in absence of the jury under a "government offer of proof," and the court had agreed to permit his statements to be heard by the jurors.

'TOLD TO LEAVE'

Defence attorney Erle Horswill announced, in the jury's presence, that he wanted to call Murton, a government witness, as a defence witness "if he can be found." Thomas Dohm, Vancouver barrister aiding the defence, said he was informed Murton "was told to leave" and was driving to Spokane.

Horswill said he wanted Murton to testify that Sgt. Ernest Nuttall, the now-retired RCMP sergeant who is Wasylenchuk's principal alibi witness, had told him about the time of the bank robbery here he had "checked out" Wasylenchuk and found him home shortly before noon the day of the holdup.

Earlier Thursday the government presented testimony in an effort to disprove Wasylenchuk's alibi that he was at his home in South Burnaby, B.C., the day of the holdup.

Fired from Satellite

Russian Probe In Deep Space

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union Thursday launched an "automatic" laboratory into deep space from a heavy satellite orbiting the earth. Scientists said they hoped the unmanned space station would help develop equipment for "distant interplanetary flights."

Moscow radio said the vehicle, called "Zond-1," transmitted signals back to earth and was on a course close to the computed one.

The radio said the station was launched by a rocket fired from a heavy satellite put into orbit with a multi-stage booster rocket, a technique similar to that used to send a Soviet space probe toward Mars on Nov. 1, 1962.

"The flight of the automatic station is tracked and the elements of its trajectory determined by a special measuring complex on the territory of the Soviet Union," the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

They're Still Out There

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At least 232 man-made objects including a mysterious Soviet craft whose purpose is unknown to the western world are orbiting in space these days.

They represent what is left of the 576 assorted pieces of space-age hardware rocketed aloft by the United States and the Soviet Union since Russian scientists launched Sputnik I on Oct. 4, 1957.

One of the most persistent is little Vanguard I, the six-inch satellite launched by the United States March 17, 1958.

Brazilian Army Chiefs Claim:

Goulart Flees—Victory Total

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Army leaders claimed total victory Thursday night in their three-day revolt against the Joao Goulart regime.

Congress installed its own provisional president to replace Goulart, who was reported to have fled the country.

* * *

The war ministry said rebel troops crushed resistance in Porto Alegre, in Goulart's home state of Rio Grande do Sul, and seized the city. A dispatch from Porto Alegre said Goulart fled Brazil by air for an undisclosed destination, believed to be Montevideo, Uruguay.

* * *

The war ministry said the Porto Alegre garrison swung over to the rebel side to seize the city and forced Goulart to abandon his plans for a last-ditch fight.

Ranieri Mazzilli, speaker of the Chamber of Deputies and constitutional successor to Goulart, was sworn in at Brasilia as provisional president in a brief ceremony.

Goulart's flight climaxed three days of feints and thrusts by opposing army units but little actual combat. Only one armed action—rebel attack and capture of tiny Fort Copacabana in Rio's Guanabara Bay—and two dead were recorded in the 72 hours of rebellion.

* * *

But more than 20 casualties were reported in pro-Goulart and anti-Goulart demonstrations here and elsewhere during the fast-moving events which began Tuesday night. The revolt was headed by military and civilian leaders who felt some of Goulart's policies were heading the country toward Communism.

More than 1,000,000 people poured into Rio de Janeiro streets in an anti-Communist victory celebration. Ticker-tape drifted down from skyscrapers. Throngs bore placards reading: "Reforms with God" and "Thanks to God, Communism has been erased."

Georgi No Worse Off Than Harry and Ike

Leafs Collect Goals, Bruises And Square Semi-Final, 2-2

By TOM WILLIAMS

TORONTO (CP) — Big Frank Mahovlich paced Toronto Maple Leafs to a 5-3 victory over Montreal Canadiens Thursday night as Leafs tied their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final at two victories each in a game that started and ended with free-for-all fighting.

Mahovlich scored two goals and three assists as he led the line of Red Kelly and George Armstrong in domination of the Canadiens every time they were on the ice. Kelly and Armstrong each scored a goal and Andy Bathgate counted the other Toronto marker.

BOWER SHAKY

J. C. Tremblay, Jean Beliveau and Jacques Laperriere scored for Canadiens, all on long shots as Leafs goaltender Johnny Bower played one of his shakiest games of the season.

Canadiens were assessed a total of 55 minutes in penalties, including two 10-minute misconducts and three major fighting penalties. Leafs took 47 minutes, including one misconduct and three fighting majors.

The series resumes at Montreal Saturday night, with sixth game back here next Tuesday and the seventh, if necessary Thursday, April 9, back at Montreal.

Leafs dominated play most of the way, starting with Bathgate's power play goal at 2:59 of the first period. They capitalized on three more Montreal penalties for goals, while Canadiens counted one with a man-power advantage and scored another while both teams were a man short in the first period.

The fighting erupted at 3:47 of the first, with Leafs Ron Stewart and Canadiens Dave Balon pairing off in one bout and Toronto's Eddie Shack tangling with Canadiens Henry Richard in the other.

Stewart took a split decision from Balon, landing a couple of good punches, while Richard battled Shack to a draw until the Leaf player butted him and drew blood from the little centre's brow.

STARTED BY STEWART

Stewart was given an elbowing penalty—with referee John Ashley recognizing his role as instigator in the outburst—and a five-minute major. Balon, Shack and Richard took majors and Leafs Bob Pulford and Canadiens Claude Provost received minor roughing sentences.

The bad feeling boiled up again with five seconds remaining in the third, during which Leafs protected their lead with a monotonous checking barrage.

STARTED SWINGING

Hardrock John Ferguson barrelled into Stewart behind the Montreal nets and they started swinging, with the Montreal winger landing a couple of good punches before a swarm of officials and players tied them up.

Bathgate opened the scoring with a fine shot to a corner and J. C. Tremblay squared it with a flip shot from just inside the blue line which took a crazy bounce and went in high.

OPEN NET

Canadiens seemed to be having an edge when Armstrong scored Leafs' second goal after Charlie Hodge had difficulty with one of those flip shots, made by Mahovlich. He came far out to make the save but the puck got away and Armstrong came up to hit the open net.

It was 2-1 with Canadiens opening the second period on the attack when Armstrong was allowed to keep the puck long enough to hit Kelly with a perfect pass as his linemate cruised into position.

LONG SHOT

Kelly ripped in a 20-footer to make it 3-1 and it was the Leafs all the way after that. Mahovlich was at the side to slap in Kelly's rebound for 4-1 before Beliveau connected with a long shot which deflected off a Toronto defenceman.

But a penalty to Claude Provost killed Montreal's faint hopes completely as Mahovlich whacked in Don McKenney's across-goal pass in the last minute of the second period.

Laperriere hit with his long shot in the first minute of the third period but the Leafs, often content just to feed the puck back into Montreal territory, were never seriously threatened.

Difference of Opinion

DETROIT (CP)—Murray Balfour tipped in Stan Mikita's blueline drive to give Chicago Black Hawks a 3-2 overtime victory Thursday night—their first triumph on Detroit ice this season—and square their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final at two games apiece.

The 27-year-old right winger, who returned to action in the post-season series for the first time since suffering a groin injury late in January, broke up the game at 8:21, just four seconds after Red Wing defenceman Bill Gadsby returned to the ice after sitting out a holding penalty.

BEST FOR HAWKS

The Hawks, who played their best game of the series, twice came from behind to whip the Wings who had rung up 5-4 and 3-0 victories after dropping the series opener 4-1 at Chicago. The teams move to Chicago for Sunday's fifth game and return here Tuesday for the sixth.

Goalkeeper Roger Crozier, 22, was the victim of the Hawk victory. He had taken over early in the second period from Terry Sawchuk who went out with a recurrence of a shoulder injury he suffered last Sunday night. The Wings were ahead 2-1 at the time on goals by Parker MacDonald and Gordie Howe.

HORNET GOALIE

The youngster, regular netminder with Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League, went into goal at 1:56 of the second period and had 19 saves before Balfour, standing just outside the crease, got a piece of Mikita's long blast to send the puck into a corner of the nets.

Ab McDonald and defenceman Pierre Pilote, who scoed on a gift goal midway through the third to tie the game 2-2, were the other Hawk marksmen.

HIGH BOUNCER

Alex Delvecchio, an old National Hockey League pro and a nifty playmaker with the Wings, was the unfortunate victim of Pilote's counter, a 20-footer that bounced high in the air off Crozier's pads and trickled behind the goal. The youngster, playing in his first cup game, momentarily lost sight of the puck.

Delvecchio, now in his 13th season with the Wings, laid the puck on the Chicago team captain's stick as he tried to clear from inside the Detroit blueline. Pilote took two steps and let go.

SOLID DEFENCE

With the scored tied 1-1, Howe popped in his 50th playoff goal at 1:19 of the second period. He was parked directly in front of Hall, grabbed a rebound and eased the puck into an open corner. That point brought his playoff total to 126, equalling the record established by the retired Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens.

Parker MacDonald had put the Wings ahead 1-0 at 7:15 of the first period with the Hawks' Elmer Vasko looking on from the penalty box. The big defenceman had returned only 17 seconds when Ab McDonald tied it 1-1 at 8:04 from a goal-mouth scramble.

FIRST PERIOD

1—Detroit, MacDonald (1) (Ullman, Delvecchio) 7:15.

2—Chicago, McDonald (2) (Wharram, Mikita) 8:04.

Penalties—Barkley 1:35, M. Provost 3:48, Wharram 3:31, Vasko 5:46, Pilote 8:34, MacNeil (double minor), A. Provost (double minor) 10:47, A. Provost 15:08, Maki 18:27.

SECOND PERIOD

3—Detroit, Howe (2) (Ullman, MacDonald) 1:19.

THIRD PERIOD

4—Chicago, Pilote (2) 9:24. Penalty—MacNeil 5:01.

OVERTIME

5—Chicago, Balfour (2) (Mikita, Hull) 8:21. Penalty—Gadsby 6:27.

Abel Sticks With Rookie

DETROIT—Roger Crozier, 22-year-old rookie who had to be summoned from the press box early in the second period last night when Terry Sawchuk was unable to carry on, will be in goal in Chicago Sunday.

"We'll leave Sawchuk here for an extra rest for the sixth game here Tuesday night," Detroit-coach Sid Abel said after the game.

Victoria Girl Sees Her NHL Heroes

Most of her memories are still to be made but no matter what happens to her here it isn't likely that there will be much that can overshadow the events of the past week for 17-year-old Gwen Loudoun.

Gwen is the young lady (Colonist, March 19) who spent the best part of last summer saving every cent she could earn—$63 from berry-picking and another $32 from a laundry job—in an attempt to realize a heart-felt ambition.

She wanted to see the Toronto Maple Leafs play, and her parents had promised to put up half the cost of the trip if she could save the other half. She missed by $25 but a brother came to her rescue and Gwen headed Eastward last week, making her first airplane trip and travelling alone.

She saw the Leafs play Tuesday night, when they blew a game to Montreal Canadiens, 2-3, in the last three minutes. Last night, all the effort really became worthwhile.

The Leafs won, 5-3, and Gwen made a happy appearance before the nation-wide television audience between the second and third periods.

Interviewed by Ward Cornell she came through with remarkable composure, almost completely covering up her nervousness with considerable poise and a great deal of tact.

Live NHL action, she said, was everything she had expected it would be and "Davey" Keon was still at the top of her list of hockey heroes, which also included Frank Mahovlich and New York defenceman Harry Howell, who was in the same room as a guest commentator for the game.

Gwen remains in Toronto until April 11. There's another game there next Thursday, you know, and it could put the Maple Leafs into the Stanley Cup final.

Lethbridge Club Too Good

Broders Eliminate Athletics

By DON PILLING
Sports Editor,
Lethbridge Herald

LETHBRIDGE — Lethbridge Broders won a basketball game by five points Wednesday night and Coach Dean Bennett said his club was much better than what they showed. Broders won another game last night at the sports centre, and, like Bennett said, they were better, much better.

The three-time Canadian champions unloaded their big guns with reckless abandon in a scorching attack in the second half to kayo Alberni Athletics, 91-82, and move into the western final against Winnipeg Buffaloes. It's a best-of-five series that opens in the Manitoba capital Monday night.

Broders, three-time Canadian champions, were the pace-setters pretty well all the way last night in the wrapup of the best-of-three western semi-final. They led, 12-10, after five minutes of play and were never headed although the Athletics did manage to battle back early in the second half to tie the score. That, however, was when their spurt sputtered and died for the night, and Broders won going away.

MORE SPORT PAGES 15, 16

Lanky Gordie Fester, who rattled in 37 points in Broders' 88-83 victory Wednesday night, popped in 25 more last night while Ken Larsen added 22 and Don McClain contributed 17 to the cause.

Sig Kuehn led Alberni in an unsuccesful effort to prolong the series with 19 points. Neil Dirom checked in with 16 while John Kootnekoff, with 11, and Denny Grisdale and Doug Brinham, with 10 each, were the others to hit double figures.

ROUGH ACTION

It was a rough battle, sometimes rowdy and sometimes chippy, with tempers flaring frequently in the final few minutes. A total of 51 fouls were called by referees Wes Rice and Ira Bourne. Broders picked up 20 and Alberni 31 with Fester fouling out for Broders and Mike Potkonjak and Dirom for Alberni.

Coach Elmer Speidel of the Athletics offered no alibis for the two-straight elimination.

"This Lethbridge club is a whale of a ball club," he said. "They are big, rough and rugged and it's going to take quite an effort to beat them."

He even went so far as to predict the Broder crew will roll to a fourth Canadian title.

"They have great personnel," said Speidel. "They absolutely killed us with their outside shooting and their rebounding. We tried but we couldn't match them. Every time we got close they'd ram two or three quick ones in. That's the story."

Speidel took a pot-shot or two at the referees. "It's a shame," he said, "that they let the game get out of hand. It was ridiculous at times."

Broders—Fester 25, Blacker 17, Helgerson 2, McClain 15, Larsen 22, Terry 2, Sindlinger 0, Tait 8, Ennis 0. Total—91.
Athletics—Dirom 16, Brinham 10, Grisdale 10, Kootnekoff 11, Potkonjak 6, Taylor 0, Lehtonen 7, Johnson 1, McPherson 2, Kuehn 19. Total—82.

Rider Back Quits Grid

Purdin was mentioned in recent trade talks with the Ottawa Rough Riders. However, this did not effect his decision to retire. He has a full-time job with the provincial fitness and education branch and felt it would interfere with his work if he continued playing with the Roughriders.

Clay, 22, said the offer was from the Egyptian government, which has promised to build a sports centre in his name in Cairo.

Clay will leave in three weeks for Africa and parts of Asia, he said, on a tour during which he will discuss the Egyptian job with officials in Cairo.

The fighter, who dethroned Sonny Liston Feb. 25, said he met for four hours Wednesday night with Elijah Muhammad, Black Muslim founder.

University School Ho me from Rugby Tour

Best of British Boys Teams Bowed

A tired but elated University School rugby team returned to Victoria yesterday after a two-week tour of the United Kingdom which saw it defeat some of the best boys' teams in Britain.

In its five games University School scored 50 points and conceded 11. It defeated Eton, the Cardiff high school champions, Hawarden, Stowe, and Mill Hill, and was unfortunate in losing its last match, 5-0, to Harrow.

The Harrow game was a rather ill-starred affair. A mix-up in scheduling resulted in its being played two days later than University School officials expected.

Then before the game, tall forward Cameron Crofton injured a knee and had to be taken out of the first 15.

And after only a few minutes of play wing three-quarter Matthew Kelly was kicked in the kidneys, and the University School finished the match with 14 players.

Neither of the two was injured seriously however.

* * *

Out they went in their fishing boats, and there watched the huge waves strike home.

* * *

When they returned, only two of 18 houses were still standing. The new Roman Catholic Church of the Immaculate Conception was tilting 50 feet from its base. A new power plant was destroyed.

The tiny community suffered proportionately more damage than any other from the waves generated by Saturday's Alaska earthquake. Its residents have only the clothes on their backs—and their boats.

To make sure the plight of the villagers is known and not ignored, Rev. William Robinson has gone to Vancouver to speak out.

Mr. Robinson is the native minister of the United Church

* * *

* * *

It was a shambles and everyone had to be evacuated. Eleven homes had been washed off their foundations and five were swept out to sea.

"They're going to rebuild their villages and I'm going to Vancouver to make sure that Hot Springs Cove is not forgotten."

Mr. Robinson said the village needs public assistance as well as Port Alberni and Alberni, twin cities who suffered $5,000,000 damage from the waves.

So far, Hot Springs Cove has been the concern of other bands on the island, and of the Indian affairs department.

Jack Homan, department supervisor in this area, said Thursday:

"We are hoping to patch up the village so that they can all return within a month in time for the fishing season... It is not a suitable site for a settlement because even at high tide it gets rather wet."

Meanwhile women of the Opitsate Reserve near here are collecting articles for their wave-stricken fellows, and in Tofino, Mrs. Barney Williams and Mrs. S. McConnell Bird are starting a drive for used articles of any kind for the Indians.

These will be taken to the village by Hot Spring Cove fishing boats.

Animals Killed

Deadly Weed Feared By Nanaimo Farmers

NANAIMO — A weed that looks like a large yellow daisy and has the peculiar name of tansy ragwort is believed to have caused the death of several farm animals in the Nanaimo area.

The weed control committee of the Cedar Farmers' Institute said Wednesday the killer weed is spreading rapidly in the Hub City area, and the committee has moved to set up a weed control area covering the entire area around Nanaimo.

J. E. Garner of Richardson Road, chairman of the weed control committee, said:

"Unless we move now, we might as well give up farming."

The committee has sent letters to the provincial minister of agriculture and to the department of agriculture at the University of British Columbia requesting aid and information on how to handle the threat.

Drinking Fines Going Up

NANAIMO — Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts has warned drivers that if the number of impaired driving convictions continues to increase in the Nanaimo area, fines and licence suspensions will increase also.

In the month of March, the magistrate handed out fines of $160 to $200 and imposed drivers' licence suspensions of anywhere from two weeks to three months to drivers convicted of these offences.

The maximum penalty on a first offence of this nature is a $500 fine or three months in jail or both.

With Taxpayers

Council to Discuss Drainage Solutions

NORTH COWICHAN—Council at its last meeting decided to meet with taxpayers from the Chemainus Road South and Henry Road area to discuss possible solutions to a 12-year-old drainage problem.

About a month ago council received a petition signed by 40 people.

In his report Coun. George Whittaker said two solutions may be considered: one which would entail digging of an open ditch at the cost of about $400, and a big-scale scheme with tiles and culverts which would amount to between $15,000 and $20,000.

Reeve Donald Morton said the latter plan would have to be shared by the taxpayers and the municipality.

He said at the meeting with the taxpayers it will be disclosed whether or not the taxpayers would be prepared to pay their share.

If the taxpayers are in favor, the project could be carried out under the initiative plan.

No Governments

Townsites Need Aid

Campbell

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell will be chief cook and bottle washer for a few more days in his new office at Room 120 of the Douglas Building.

Government officials are still playing musical chairs in the Douglas Building to make room for the Socred member from Comox who recently was handed the municipal affairs portfolio.

When a reporter walked in yesterday for the first official interview with the new minister, Mr. Campbell was busy answering the phone, opening doors for visitors and running a one-man show.

He has been given a secretary but it will be a few more days before an office is prepared for her.

Mr. Campbell said he is concerned about the lack of civic government for small communities which are "literally being carved out of the wilderness" on northern Vancouver Island.

He hopes to find some "intermediate" type of government which can fill the gap until these isolated communities are large enough to decide what kind of municipal government they want.

FORSTED AREAS

"I intend to have the department co-operate in a more extensive way with industrial users in forested areas who desire to set up public communities, particularly within forest management licence or lease areas," he said.

"I will ask the department to study the type of government that might be brought to these areas (such as Rayonier's public townsites at Port McNeill and Rumble Beach) . . . prior to their becoming completely public communities."

Port Alice, an area which is also in Mr. Campbell's riding, "develops a dependence upon the company which sets them apart from the rest of the province, and I think a one-industry dominated community is lacking in balance.

"It is difficult for the influence of an individual to assert itself in a one-company dominated area — it has a tendency to make employment unflexible, free movement of labor does not develop and in many instances there are no competitive services," the minister said.

PROBABLY EXTENDED

"The initial experience with the new townsite at Port McNeill and the one being developed at Rumble Beach is satisfactory enough to prove up the feasibility of their developments and will probably be extended to other areas on Vancouver Island.

Kelsey Bay and Port Hardy, with populations of up to 1,500, "are both one-industry dominated and have no civic government. They may also need an intermediate phase of government — a type of machinery for effectively transferring them to more widespread, effective administration," Mr. Campbell said.

Stolen Tins Gave Car That Shook-Up Look

A youth who admitted making a do-it-yourself grille for his car from stolen milkshake holders will spend a week in jail while he waits for a pre-sentence report.

Gary Dwight Lamontagne, 18, of 2632 Douglas, admitted stealing three holders, and another 33 were supplied to him by friends over eight months to a year, Saanich magistrate's court was told yesterday. He pleaded guilty to possession of stolen goods under the value of $50 and was remanded to April 9.

Minister of State To Be Guest Here

Duke of Devonshire

The Duke of Devonshire, Britain's minister of state for Commonwealth relations will visit Victoria this month, and is expected to be guest of honor at one of the first official social events of the season.

The duke will be in Vancouver for the B.C. International Trade Fair April 13 to 23, and will make a side trip to visit Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes.

The duke is grandson of the ninth duke of Devonshire and was governor-general of Canada from 1916 to 1921. He has travelled through eastern Canada but has not yet visited B.C.

He is expected to be guest-of-honor at the first official garden party of the social season on Government House grounds, and will later attend a dinner party in his honor.

Boy, 11, Injured

In good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday was Monty Jones, 11, of the Cole Bay Indian Reserve, who suffered a deep head cut in an accident involving a car driven by Philip Nesbitt, 3981 Saanich Road, at Government and Pandora Tuesday.

Scouts Commended

By ALAN CAMPBELL

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes, himself a former Boy Scout, yesterday commended the work of Scouts in two recent Island emergencies, and called their work "the acme of all Scouting ideals."

Mr. Pearkes was addressing more than 300 senior Scouts from several B.C. centres after they were presented with Queen's Scout certificates at Government House.

HELPED CLEANUP

The lieutenant-governor said Scouts in the Albernis—ravaged last week by tidal waves and flooding—had "given up" their Easter holidays from school to assist in the massive clean-up work in the district.

Mr. Pearkes said the Scouts at the scene after the disaster used their knowledge of first aid and emergency procedure to great advantage.

AT SCHOOL FIRE

At the recent fire at Lake Cowichan High School, Mr. Pearkes said, Boy Scouts made themselves available to assist firemen almost immediately.

Mainland scouts, from as far away as the Cariboo and Kootenay districts, were brought to Victoria for the ceremony by RCN's HMCS Saskatchewan and HMCS Margaree to join about 60 Greater Victoria boys and several from up-Island points. They had earned the Queen's Scout certificates for general proficiency in all phases of scouting.

The Victoria and Island boys were:

$26 in Coins, Beer Stolen

A thief stole $26 in coins, most of them dimes, when he smashed a rear window to gain entry to the home of Mrs. Dorothy Hart, 766 Kings, overnight Wednesday, city police said yesterday. A case of beer was also taken from the house.

Verdict: Guilty Of Rape

Ward was accused of raping a 27-year-old Nanaimo woman, mother of three children, in the apartment of a neighbor, Mrs. Shirley Douglas, on the night of Sept. 24, 1963. He was remanded to 10:30 a.m. today for sentence.

OUT FIVE HOURS

The jury was in and out from 4:30 p.m. Thursday until returning the verdict at 10:10 p.m.

Mrs. Douglas had testified that when she entered the apartment the woman was sitting on the chesterfield feeding her three-week-old baby, and Ward was sitting beside her.

'DON'T LEAVE ME'

Mrs. Douglas said she and Ward talked about a cigarette lighter he had lost, and she returned it to him. Then the woman said:

"Don't leave me. I've been violated."

Mrs. Douglas said she didn't know what that meant, and the woman told her. Mrs. Douglas then turned to Ward and asked him what he had done.

DENIED CHARGE

Mrs. Douglas said that when she left to get help the woman started to cry.

Mr. Justice J. G. A. Hutcheson presided at the trial.

To Check Bridge

NORTH COWICHAN — The public works supervisor will be asked to investigate the need for resurfacing of the Chemainus River bridge at Westholme following a request from the Chemainus-Crofton Chamber of Commerce.

Liquor Term Eased

NANAIMO—The owners of the Newcastle Hotel on Comox Road have been given a year's suspended sentence for allowing liquor to be sold on their premises after the hours set down in the Government Liquor Act.

Mr. and Mrs. James Clarke pleaded guilty to the charge through their lawyer, Robert Ross of Vancouver. They were also put under a $1,000 bond for the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke were charged when the manager of the beer parlor in the hotel sold a case of beer Nov. 17, 1963, to two plainclothes policemen 40 minutes after the legal closing time.

Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts said, "It has always been my practice to deal with offenders on an equal basis but because the owners had no knowledge of the illegal sale I feel a suspended sentence is justified."

Maximum fine for corporations convicted of selling liquor after legal hours is $1,000.

Coun. Hogan, commission chairman, said all inquiries will be carefully studied as soon as the commission's duties are more clearly defined.

Another commission member, Coun. Gerry Smith, felt since many Duncan people also use the beach at Maple Bay it would be "a good idea" if a Duncan service club financed the cost for a lifeguard there.

In regard to financing of lifeguards at other municipal beaches and a caretaker at Fullers Lake Park, Coun. Smith asked for clarification, and council is expected to make decisions soon.

Port Alberni Rescuer

He Waded Shoulder-Deep in Tide

By MARGARET TREBETT

PORT ALBERNI—A man who waded shoulder-deep in water to help fathers save their children in the flooded area of Port Alberni is still shaking his head in amazement over the fact that there was no loss of life in the disaster.

Bill Mulcaster, proprietor of Valley Oil distribution, said:

"That must have been an act of God, too."

He had estimated that half the youngsters in the low-lying area along Third and Fourth Avenues would have been drowned.

A telephone call to warn him of danger to his oil storage tanks at the foot of Argyle woke Mr. Mulcaster early Saturday. Third Avenue was dry as he drove his truck to the scene but when he approached the waterfront, he could see the water swirling around the tanks and realized that there was nothing he could do.

Returning, he could not drive along Third North, so detoured and stopped up on Fifth Avenue, intending to walk to the family's home behind the business premises at 610 Third North.

* * *

Up to his shoulders in water, he was turned back once by the force of the tide.

Then he heard calls for help on Fourth Avenue and fought his way down in pitch darkness to help carry children out of a flooded apartment block.

* * *

"That was the most exciting half-hour of the 50 years I've lived in the valley," he said. "It was real bedlam. People were breaking windows and screaming. I was sure that children were being drowned."

He was bruised and scraped by floating debris in the flood, but by 6 a.m. he had a truck on the road delivering oil.

Mr. Mulcaster expressed his appreciation for the service given by B.C. Telephone men, who, without being asked, had his telephone re-connected by by 8 a.m.

Damage to the building was typical of that in the immediate area, one of the hardest hit. Mr. Mulcaster estimated his loss in damage to his living quarters, furnishings, storage rooms and stock at $16,000.

By Tuesday afternoon, the front premises were scoured clean, offering the public a spic and span view.

The March, 1964 shipments consisted of: United States, 6,662,000 board feet; Australia, 3,280,000 board feet; United Kingdom, 2,478,000 board feet; Japan, 1,501,000 board feet; Belgium, 1,305,000 board feet; Italy, 1,237,018 board feet; Puerto Rico, 703,000 board feet.

Driving on Sidewalk Nets Fine, Scolding

NANAIMO—A Nanaimo man was fined $20 and had his driver's licence suspended for 10 days by Magistrate Beevor-Potts in traffic court Tuesday morning, after he pleaded guilty to driving his small European car along the sidewalk on a downtown street.

Police said M. S. Smith was driving his car along the sidewalk on Commercial Street in front of the Shoreline Hotel and he could give no explanation for this clowning.

Magistrate Beevor-Potts commented:

Other traffic fines: Clarence Elliot, careless driving, $40; Mrs. Judith Meadows, failing to yield the right of way, $22.50; B. G. McKinley, crossing a double solid line, $12.50; Peter Meiers, failing to stop for a flashing red light, $10; Vancouver Island Freight Services Ltd., truck with no mud-guards, $10.

DUNCAN — Mrs. Hein Alphonse appeared in two roles in police court here Thursday—as defendant and as plaintiff.

In the first case, she was convicted of common assault on Cowichan Indian dancer Cecelia Jack, and fined $50.

In the second case she heard Gerald Littlejohn, Duncan, convicted of assaulting herself and her baby. Littlejohn was remanded to today for sentence.

Nanaimo Minstrels Score Big Success

NANAIMO — Lions Club members in Nanaimo are pleased as punch about the tremendous reception given to the first performance of their 11th annual Lions' minstrel show.

Opening night Wednesday at the senior high school auditorium drew capacity crowds. Len Hannah said proudly, "It's the best performance we ever had on an opening night. We never had anything like this."

The minstrels of 1964 had a closed performance Monday afternoon at the senior high for the blind and the inmates of Brannan Lake School.

Mr. Hannah said the reason for the polished first-night performance was the show Monday and the leadership of John Getgood.

Mr. Hannah said, "Most of the credit has to go to John Getgood who had only six weeks to put the show together. Usually we have three or four months."

The minstrels will continue their antics until Saturday night.

Older to Wiser's means aged in wood, not merely the date stamp on the bottle. It means "married in wood" which is a process of returning the spirits to wood after final blending—for a further period of quiet aging. JUDGE ASSAILS LOST WITNESSES

SEATTLE (AP) — Two missing witnesses in the murder-bank robbery trial of Canadian John Wasylenchuk were sought Thursday and one was criticized from the bench as their unexplained absence delayed the case from going to the jury.

Efforts were made to locate Fred L. Mitchell, Seattle police detective, and retired Sgt. Edward Murton of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, of Tadanac, B.C., near Trail.

Federal Judge William Lindberg estimated at adjournment the jury might get the case by noon Friday. He had earlier thought deliberations could begin by late Thursday.

Commenting from the bench that the Seattle officer had failed to be present when subpoenaed to do so, Judge Lindberg said:

Mitchell had earlier testified in absence of the jury under a "government offer of proof," and the court had agreed to permit his statements to be heard by the jurors.

Defence attorney Erle Horswill announced, in the jury's presence, that he wanted to call Murton, a government witness, as a defence witness "if he can be found." Thomas Dohm, Vancouver barrister aiding the defence, said he was informed Murton "was told to leave" and was driving to Spokane.

Horswill said he wanted Murton to testify that Sgt. Ernest Nuttall, the now-retired RCMP sergeant who is Wasylenchuk's principal alibi witness, had told him about the time of the bank robbery here he had "checked out" Wasylenchuk and found him home shortly before noon the day of the holdup.

Belgian Strike

Doctors Face Army Callup

BRUSSELS (AP) — The Belgian government Thursday ordered a Brussels military hospital opened to civilians and planned to call up physicians in the armed forces reserves to cope with a country-wide doctors' strike.

Government sources said civilian hospitals here were overcrowded and 200 more beds urgently needed.

* * *

Almost all of Belgium's 10,000 practising doctors struck Wednesday in protest against changes in the state-controlled health insurance system.

Since the strike began, the only way for a patient to receive medical care is to summon an ambulance and go to a hospital where a skeleton emergency service has been set up by doctors' organizations.

The Belgian news agency Belga Thursday night reported four doctors burst into an Ostend surgery Wednesday while an operation was being performed and urged the surgeon to stop it. The surgeon refused and threw the intruders out of the operating room with the help of his assistants.

* * *

Workers staged demonstrations against the doctors in some areas Thursday.

The reform law, passed by Parliament last year, grants free medical treatment to low-income people and sets fixed fees for treatment. It strengthens controls so much that spokesmen for the doctors charge it is a step toward fully socialized medicine.

One provision is that rebel doctors will be fined and jailed.

The amendments cut medical fees heavily. The standard rates of a general practitioner have been the equivalent of $1.60 for an office visit and $2.40 for a house call. The revision sets respective rates of $1 and $1.60.

Specialists who have been getting $3 and $4 are called on to settle for fees of $2 and $2.20.

Tax Reshuffle May Follow Parley Review

Lesage

QUEBEC (CP) — The federal-provincial conference agreed Thursday to a searching "review in depth" into the tax resources and financial responsibilities of federal and provincial governments.

Prime Minister Pearson said it might lead to a reshuffling of taxing and spending fields between the two levels of government and "conceivably" to constitutional amendments.

There was agreement in principle on such a study, but not final agreement to the federal proposal that a 13-man ministerial "tax structure committee" do the job. One source said Quebec hesitated to agree firmly that such a committee is the best body to do the job.

WORK OUT FORMULA

A communique issued at the close of the three-day conference also announced agreement on immediate discussions to work out a formula for provinces wanting to "contract out" of existing shared-cost programs—taking over their whole cost burden in return for what Mr. Pearson said would be "adequate" compensation.

The prime minister said Quebec is the only province to have declared its desire to contract out of such programs now

'Unconstitutional'

Quebec Fights Aid Schemes

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage said Thursday Quebec would challenge in the courts the constitutionality of two federal government measures to aid education if they are applied in Quebec.

He made the statement in a formal communique issued at the end of the federal-provincial conference.

The two measures are an extension of family allowances to 16- and 17-year-old students, designed to keep older children in school, and proposed interest-free loans to university students.

PROVINCIAL MATTER

Quebec contends that since both measures are aimed at aiding education they are unconstitutional because education is strictly a provincial matter.

Mr. Lesage reiterated Quebec wants the equivalent of the money Ottawa would spend in Quebec on the two plans, in the form of increased taxation resources.

Mr. Lesage said his government is "not satisfied" with its current share of tax resources. The question would be discussed with "unprecedented gravity" in his budget speech, expected about mid-April.

The Quebec premier, visibly weary after three days of talks, said education is "incontestably within our jurisdiction." The only solution to the issue would be for Ottawa to provide Quebec with fiscal compensation if it goes ahead with its plans.

SAVE COMPLICATIONS

"This is a solution which could be applied immediately and save us from complications, and even serious disputes, which would be the inevitable result of a disagreement.

"Indeed we would necessarily have to have recourse to the courts to obtain respect for the constitutional rights of the province if our observations are not followed."

Adjusters To Rule On Loss

As disaster aid pledged to the Alberni Valley passed the $500,000 mark, the provincial cabinet yesterday hired professional insurance adjusters to appraise the Alaska earthquake's tidal wave damage to Vancouver Island.

Deputy provincial secretary Lawrie Wallace said the cabinet hired the Canadian Independent Adjusters' Conference under E. C. Earle of Vancouver and that an advance team of 15 adjusters is expected to arrive at Port Alberni today.

(See also Page 22.)

The survey will include a dozen more remote communities up-Island which suffered from the tidal waves and will take a week to 10 days.

Brazilian Army Chiefs Claim:

Goulart Flees—Victory Total

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Army leaders claimed total victory Thursday night in their three-day revolt against the Joao Goulart regime.

Congress installed its own provisional president to replace Goulart, who was reported to have fled the country.

The war ministry said rebel troops crushed resistance in Porto Alegre, in Goulart's home state of Rio Grande do Sul, and seized the city. A dispatch from Porto Alegre said Goulart fled Brazil by air for an undisclosed destination, believed to be Montevideo, Uruguay.

The war ministry said the Porto Alegre garrison swung over to the rebel side to seize the city and forced Goulart to abandon his plans for a last-ditch fight.

Ranieri Mazzilli, speaker of the Chamber of Deputies and constitutional successor to Goulart, was sworn in at Brasilia as provisional president in a brief ceremony.

Goulart's flight climaxed three days of feints and thrusts by opposing army units but little actual combat. Only one armed action—rebel attack and capture of tiny Fort Copacabana in Rio's Guanabara Bay—and two dead were recorded in the 72 hours of rebellion.

But more than 20 casualties were reported in pro-Goulart and anti-Goulart demonstrations here and elsewhere during the fast-moving events which began Tuesday night. The revolt was headed by military and civilian leaders who felt some of Goulart's policies were heading the country toward Communism.

More than 1,000,000 people poured into Rio de Janeiro streets in an anti-Communist victory celebration. Ticker-tape drifted down from skyscrapers. Throngs bore placards reading: "Reforms with God" and "Thanks to God, Communism has been erased."

Truman

LONDON (AP) — Moscow radio said Thursday that former premier Georgi Malenkov is no worse off than former presidents Truman and Eisenhower.

Broadcasting in English to North America, a Moscow commentator said a listener had asked what had happened to Malenkov.

"Mr. Malenkov was released from his post according to legal, constitutional procedure by a democratically elected body, the Soviet Parliament.

"Now why ask what happened to him? Why should something happen to him?

"The day when things happened to people is gone never to return again.

Malenkov and other members of an "anti-party group" were ousted from the Soviet inner circle in 1957.
